Sunday Clinics Awaited

War On Measles Opens

"It doesn't hurt!" That's the response of Troy Woolmaker to a measles immunization shot from Miss Jane Crawford, who will be assisting at the Sunday measles clinics sponsored at five sites in Columbiana County.

Looking on are Mrs. Stephen Sinclair, left, who will be in charge of the clinic volunteers at Westgate School, and Mrs. Sheldon Johnston, another of the assisting nurses.

THE CLINICS will be held from noon to 5 p.m. at Westgate, Salineville Grade School, Salem High School, McKinley School at Lisbon and Capt. Taggart School at East Palestine.

They are sponsored by the Columbiana County Medical Society and its Auxiliary and the County Board of Health. Dr. Alexander Fisher of East Liverpool and Mrs. Susan Ulicny of Salem are in charge.

Physicians are urging that all children 1 to 12 receive the vaccine to prevent measles, which is now rated the No. 1 killer andcrippler of youngsters.

The immunizations will be provided without charge. However donations will be accepted. The vaccine is delivered free by the government for children from 1 to 6. Additional funds are needed, however, for those older, it was explained.

OTHER nurses who will be helping at the Westgate clinic include Mrs. Hazel Ludwig, Mrs. Mildred Baker, Mrs. Roberta Helfrich, Vivian Owen, Mrs. Floribel Allen.

Posters were distributed throughout the area by Sue Ann Hays, Vicki Derr and Candy Hayden.

Dr. Fisher appealed to parents to make sure their children are immunized at the clinic if they have not previously had the shots.

Authorities pointed out the immunizations are administered by a jet injection device rather than the conventional needle, eliminating the discomfort factor.

Senator Charges 'Blackmail'

Postal Officials Schedule Cut In Saturday Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office Department has ordered the closing of 347 small branches and told postmasters to gear to sharp curtailment of Saturday service everywhere.

Announcing this Friday the department said it was caused by manpower cutbacks dictated in the new tax bill.

But a senator said it was "blackmail" aimed at forcing an exemption from the bill for the department.

The department said 250 fourth class post offices will be closed Aug. 2 and 97 more Aug. 30.

Effective July 27 all Saturday and Sunday window service at first and second class post offices will be cut to a maximum of two hours. Saturday collection from street boxes will be limited to Sunday schedules.

Deadline Established
Postmasters also were told to submit by Sept. 1 plans for elimination of all Saturday delivery on city residential routes. No date was set for carrying these out.

The department also imposed, in a separate action, a freeze on extension of delivery routes to new apartments or subdivisions.

"This is not a matter of dollars, but of people," said the department. "Under the manpower restrictions imposed by the tax bill we simply will not have enough people to continue all postal services at their present level."

The department said it hoped

"Congress will correct the situation."

"We are not asking for restoration of any money cut from our budget," it said. "We believe we can operate within our budget and maintain postal services at or near their present level if we do not have to reduce employment to the June 1966 level."

The tax bill requires the department to cut back 83,238 employees by filling only three out of every four vacancies.

Congressmen Cool
In Congress, the department action was received coolly.

"We will not be intimidated by blackmail or implied threats," said Sen. John J. Wil-

Michigan Suburb Urges Negro Family To Remain

WARREN Mich. (AP) — "We will try, as Christian people, to overcome the prejudice and bigotry shown them on so many occasions."

A Negro autoworker and his white wife took down the "for sale" sign in front of their house after the above message, addressed to them, appeared in a full-page newspaper advertisement signed by 1,750 persons.

"We're reconsidering our plans," said Corrado Bailey, who moved into this industrial suburb of Detroit with his white wife and their two children about a year ago.

When they first arrived, a crowd gathered outside their house, and police were assigned to prevent trouble. Rocks were thrown through windows, racial slurs were shouted and several attempts were made to set fire to the house.

Harassed By Youths
The Baileys continued to be the target of harassment, mainly by teen-agers.

"It was especially hard on our little girl, Pam. She's only 8," said Mrs. Bailey. "She doesn't understand what it's all about and has been upset by all this."

This spring the Baileys decided to move and a "for sale" sign was posted on their front lawn.

Train Collision Kills

10, Hurts 60 In Spain

MEDINA DEL CAMPO, Spain (AP) — An express passenger train and a freight train collided head-on today, killing eight persons and injuring 60, railroad officials said.

The officials said 30 of the injured were released after treatment for minor injuries.

The crash occurred two miles from Medina del Campo, about 60 miles northwest of Madrid.

Bombs Kill 105 Enemy In Mekong

Plane Strikes Aim At Forces Braced To Assault Saigon

By GEORGE ESPER Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Allied ground troops searching an enemy infiltration route in the Mekong Delta have found the bodies of 105 enemy soldiers killed by B52 strikes, the U.S. Air Force said today.

The eight-engine bombers, America's biggest, have been pounding infiltration routes leading to Saigon in an effort to blunt a major offensive expected next week. Intelligence reports say six enemy divisions are poised to hit the capital and Viet Cong suicide squads are pouring into the city.

The Air Force said the enemy troops were killed by heavy B52 raids Thursday and Friday in Chau Doc Province's Seven Mountain area, about 125 miles southwest of Saigon.

Enemy In Saigon
A highly placed Vietnamese source said 1,000 enemy troops already were inside the capital despite identity checks and allied sweeps around the city. They are believed to be terrorists, demolition experts and commandos.

Military spokesmen believe the enemy will attack Saigon before Friday, anniversary of the 1954 Geneva agreements that partitioned Vietnam. One possibility is that the attack will be launched to coincide with the visit of Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford, due to arrive this weekend for a first-hand assessment of the war.

American troops in the defense ring around Saigon have uncovered two fresh enemy weapons caches and a crudely built hospital.

A cache found nine miles west of Saigon today contained five warheads for 107mm rockets, which have a range of about five miles.

Grenades Discovered
The other cache was uncovered 40 miles northwest of the grenades and 81 mortar rounds.

The hospital complex—three huts and a small quantity of medical supplies—was found 18 miles south of Saigon.

Besides the Chinese-made 107mm rockets, reports indicate the Viet Cong will be backed up in any attack on Saigon with 122mm and 140mm rockets and possibly some new type of artillery. The 140mm rockets are more powerful but less accurate than the rockets previously used against Saigon, and are expected to cause significant civilian casualties in any mass barrage intended for military targets.

New York officials were being sent to North Carolina to take custody of him. They said they expected to return him to New York Monday or Tuesday.

Rogers, a Negro, was unarmed and accompanied by his brother, Henry Rogers of Burlington, when they approached Deputy Clifton Wilkinson on the courthouse steps. They were "calm as anybody," Wilkinson said.

Henry Rogers, 35, oldest of 11 children in the family, told the Burlington Times-News: "He did it in self-defense. Some people have asked me if my brother is insane. He is not insane. He did it in self-defense."

Rogers quoted his brother as saying "those people came into the building where he was superintendent. One of them put a gun against his belly. He took the gun away from the fellow and sprayed them with it."

"After he did it, he got scared and ran," Henry Rogers said. Sheriff John Stockard said Bobby Rogers told him he had thrown the weapon away, then boarded a bus in Manhattan at 8:30 p.m. Thursday—a few hours after the Bronx shootings.

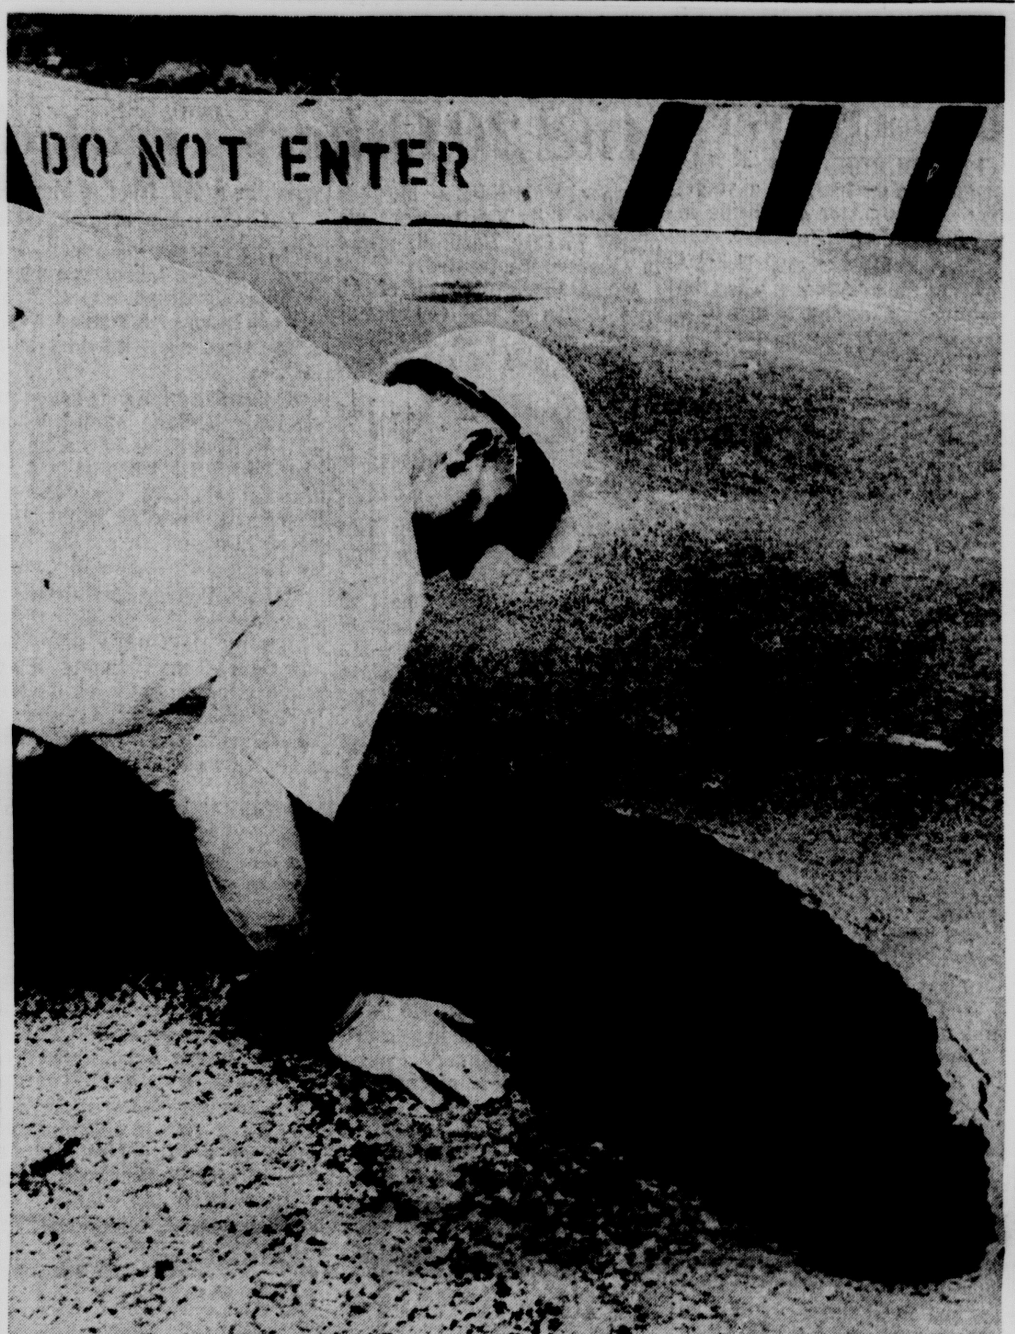

He arrived in nearby Greensboro, N.C., Friday morning and took another bus to Burlington. Henry Rogers said his brother considered going back to New York to surrender.

"I told him not to do that, because they would kill him if he did," He did not elaborate on who "they" might be.

The board will consider approval of the annual budget and will act upon resignations and appointments of additional staff members.

Slayer Of 3 Turns Self In To Police In North Carolina

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Bobby L. Rogers, identified by police as the Bronx gunman who killed three men, told his brother he shot in self-defense, the brother said.

The 31-year-old Army veteran was in the Alamance County jail today after surrendering meekly Friday to a deputy sheriff in the adjoining city of Graham and waiving extradition.

New York officials were being sent to North Carolina to take custody of him. They said they expected to return him to New York Monday or Tuesday.

Near Stratton

5 Suffer Injuries In Area Mishap

Five district residents were injured—two seriously—as the result of a two-car mishap near Stratton early this morning.

Admitted to City Hospital were Charles Leasure and Delbert Leasure, both of 2010 Clark Ave., Wellsville, in "fair" condition with possible spine injuries, and Elmer Merchant of Florence St., Glenmoor, "satisfactory" with a laceration of the forehead, a possible fractured skull and contusions and abrasions of the face.

Treated was Joseph Rawson Jr. of Irontdale RD 1 for a possible fracture of the nose and lacerations of a toe.

Deputy Marshall Dale Smith said investigation is continuing into the mishap, which occurred a few minutes past midnight on Route 7, near the main entrance to the Ohio Edison Plant.

Smith said a northbound 1965 sedan driven by Charles Leasure had stopped to pick up a hitchhiker when it was rammed in the rear by a 1965 sedan operated by Dale Flam of East Liverpool. Merchant was a passenger in the Flam auto, officers said.

The Leasure car was demolished and the front of the Flam vehicle damaged heavily, Smith said.

DiSalle Will Nominate

Sen. Edward Kennedy's Name Due At Convention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Ohio Gov. Michael V. DiSalle announced today he will place in nomination the name of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy for the top spot on the Democratic presidential ticket.

DiSalle, a convention delegate, said the Massachusetts senator, younger brother of assassinated Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York, did not know of his plan.

Kennedy's office, when advised of DiSalle's intention, declined to comment. The senator could not be reached.

Describing his move as a one-man operation, DiSalle said he discussed the idea with a number of people and received an enthusiastic response.

He added he had not mentioned it to any member of the Kennedy family or associates or to any Democratic party leaders.

DiSalle, who was active in Robert Kennedy's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination, said he had not spoken to Edward Kennedy since a couple days after his brother's death.

"But I don't see how he can turn it down," he said.

Ambassador Points To Halt In Shelling Of Saigon By Cong

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER AP Special Correspondent

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman disclosed today that "serious matters" have been touched on in his informal coffee-break conversations with Ambassador Xuan Thuy of North Vietnam during the Paris peace talks.

"There are a lot of trivialities and personal discussions," Harriman said, "but one can't help but touch on serious matters. And we're getting into a little bit more of the idea of what's important in each other's minds."

Harriman said he considered it a "good sign" that enemy forces "haven't shelled Saigon for a couple of weeks." He described this as one of the "straws in the wind" that he found somewhat encouraging.

But he said that so far he has not found any indication that North Vietnam was prepared to impose "restraint" on its military operations to justify ending the rest of the American bombing on the North.

Harriman discussed the talks in a televised interview, aimed primarily at a European audience and Harriman sought to explain U.S. policy toward divided Vietnam by drawing an analogy with divided Germany.

"Thinking in terms of Europeans," he said, "I think one has to think of the fact that the German people want to get together, and there are conditions under which they can come together."

"But no one suggests that the use of force should be applied. No one would be so reckless as to suggest the use of force. Whatever the future of the reunification of Germany, it must be done by peaceful means."

"It all gives an indication," Harriman said, "that at some time after they get through the propaganda—and they definitely will get through that—that they will be willing to talk hard sense."

Edison Union Joins Strike Across Ohio

Some 2,000 Ohio Edison Co. employees at Toledo, Stratton, Akron, Youngstown, Lorain and Bellaire were out on strike today, joining Ohio Power Co. union members who have been away from their jobs since June 28.

The Utility Workers of America locals at the Ohio Edison facilities walked out Friday.

Supervisory personnel of both utilities are continuing the operations of the firms.

Union members in six locals overwhelmingly rejected Ohio Edison's offer Wednesday to replace a contract that expired July 1.

Federal mediator H. J. Motone said he has scheduled meetings today and next Tuesday with representatives of striking Ohio Power employees. Motone said he would meet today with IBEW workers in Zanesville, and in Steubenville next Tuesday.

Charles Millsap Jr., 11, was missing since Sunday when he disappeared during a trip to a grocery store for a quart of milk.

Police said the boy died of strangulation. They said his body had been sexually molested.

A nationwide police bulletin has been issued for Arthur Blackwell, 51, the suspected murderer.

Blackwell had been staying at the Southside Salvation Army shelter, but checked out Sunday evening about the time of the boy's disappearance.

Police aided by K-9 Corps dogs found the boy's body Friday.

'Missing' Plane Located In Stark

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The search for a private plane reported missing on a flight from Mansfield, Ohio, to Edgewood, Md., was called off Friday after it was learned the plane had landed safely in Stark County.

The Ohio Civil Air Patrol said the plane landed at Magnolia Airport near Canton Thursday night and took off again for its destination Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Milo Pochup of Edgewood, Md., were returning home from a vacation trip when they took off from Mansfield Airport Thursday night. When they failed to arrive at their destination Civil Air Patrol units from a number of states began searching.

A spokesman at Magnolia Airport said he was not aware that the plane had been reported missing.

Transplant Pioneers Hit
Surgery Delay Proposal

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — The pioneers of human heart transplants have rejected any suggestion to halt all such surgery until more is known about keeping the patient alive after the operation.

In the city where Dr. Philip Blaiberg has lived nearly 6½ months with a transplanted heart—longer than any other recipient—13 surgeons from nine countries begin exchanging ideas today at a medical symposium.

At a news conference Friday, many of them said more heart transplants must be performed in efforts to solve the immunological problem—how to prevent rejection of the transplanted organ without drastically reducing the patient's resistance to infection.

The moratorium question was posed by Dr. Christiaan Barnard, who performed the world's first heart transplant and who is host to the symposium at the University of Cape Town.

"No, certainly not," said Dr. Adrian Kantrowitz of New York's Maimonides Hospital. "I think this is too important a development in the field of heart disease and it is something that should be pursued with great vigor by surgical groups around the world."

Since Dec. 3 last year, 25 heart transplants have been performed and 18 patients have died.

Despite this, Dr. James Mowbray, an immunologist on the British transplant team led by South African-born surgeon Donald Ross, said rejection problems are "perhaps less for heart transplants than they are for kidneys."

He also rejected the idea of a moratorium, along with Dr. E. R. Stinson of California's Palisades Hospital team. The latter said, "Cardiac transplantation has reached the stage of clinical investigation where we can safely say that this will be a powerful therapeutic tool."

The United States, Britain, France, India, Canada, Argentina, Chile, Brazil and South Africa are represented at the symposium. The arriving specialists were greeted at the airport Friday by Barnard and his brother Marius, also a member of the Cape Town heart team.

All 4 Wheels, Tires Removed From Auto

All four wheels and tires were stolen from an Elyria man's 1967 model sports car while it was parked on an E. 4th St. lot, the irate owner told police Friday.

Gordon Johnson of Elyria said the thorough thieves took four so-called "mag" wheels on which 8.45-x-15 size tires were mounted. He did not explain how he moved the car off the lot, but he presumably obtained a new set of wheels and tires, officers said.

Meanwhile, Erma McGraw of 465½ Mulberry St. told police yesterday her home was looted of four bottles of food sweetener, three cans of insecticide, two bottles of shampoo and a bottle of soft drink.

A 60,000-year-old human fossil skull, discovered in Tanganyika by British anthropologists, is said to be the oldest human fossil yet found.

7,000 Take Part
In Pennsylvania
VFW Procession

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Some 7,000 men and women participated on Friday in a parade through center city, marking the 49th annual convention of the Pennsylvania Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The bands, color guards and drill teams competed for $4,500 in prizes.

Among the prize-winning groups were: Uniontown Post 47, senior band; Warren High School, sponsored by Post 631, junior band; Somerset Post 554, baton twirl; Newville Post 6070, senior drill team, and Media, sponsored by Post 3460, junior drill team.

Also: Muncy Post 3428, senior colorguard; Lenni Post 6613, junior colorguard and junior drum corps; Penn York Highlanders, sponsored by VFW District 14, senior kilt band; and Somerset Post 554, junior kilt band.

The convention closes Saturday with the election of officers.

Probe Continues In Ransacking Of Office At Church

An investigation is continuing into the ransacking of the office at the First Methodist Church last night or early today.

Police were called to the church at 5th and Jackson St. following discovery of the entry at 7 this morning by Mrs. Elva Hynes, custodian.

Patrolman Robert Duffy, who investigated, said the door was removed from its hinges to gain entry. Upon leaving, the person or persons involved replaced the door, leaving little indication of the entry.

A desk drawer was forced open, but efforts to break into a pop machine were unsuccessful, police said.

Officials at the church have not yet determined if anything was taken.

Beer Drivers OK Pact
To End 29-Day Strike

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Two hundred truck drivers responsible for beer distribution in Mahoning, Trumbull and parts of Columbiana Counties voted today to end their 29-day-old strike.

The drivers, members of Teamsters Local 377, voted 94 to one in favor of accepting an offer from the Mahoning Valley Distributors for a contract promising $1.50 an hour raises over the next three years.

The distributors' association rep55158ts six firms in the Youngstown area.

Local secretary John Angelo said the offer was very satisfactory and met the union's demands.

Oil Executive Pleads
Guilty In Greek Case

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—Edgar McCauley, vice president of Reliance Oil and Gas Co., pleaded guilty in Newark Municipal Court Friday to causing contamination of Wakatomika Creek and was fined $500 — $400 of which was suspended.

McCauley said one of the company's wells overflowed allowing oil to flow into the nearby stream. He said the company has taken corrective action to prevent recurrence of the incident.

Emergency Allocation

More U.S. Aid Expected
In 'Silver Bridge' Project

WASHINGTON (AP)—West Virginia and Ohio are expected to get several million dollars in emergency federal funds to help build a replacement for the collapsed Silver Bridge, two members of Congress said Friday.

Sen. Jennings Randolph, (D-W.Va.) and Rep. William H. Harsha, (R-Ohio) said the emergency allocation from the federal highway trust fund "seems to be assured as a consequence of action agreed upon in a Senate-House conference committee on federal aid legislation."

Randolph is chairman of the Senate conferees and Harsha is a member of the House conferees delegation. The conferees are working to resolve differences between versions of highway authorization bills passed in the two houses.

The new bridge to carry U.S. 35 across the Ohio River is to be built at Henderson, W. Va. The location is a short distance downriver from Point Pleasant, W. Va., where the Silver Bridge fell last Dec. 15 with a loss of 46 lives.

The West Virginia Road Commission recently let superstructure and substructure construction contracts for the new span.

Broadening a provision which previously applied only to such "natural disasters" as floods and hurricanes, Randolph successfully sponsored a Senate amendment under which "catastrophic failures" of federal-aid highway bridges would make affected states eligible for emergency replacement or repair funds. On a motion by Harsha, the House conferees accepted this provision of the Senate version.

Without emergency relief, Randolph said, West Virginia would have to spend more than $6 million of its primary and secondary highway money on the bridge project.

He said this would have wiped out most of the state's capability of matching federal funds for other primary construction and safety reconstruction.

West Pennsylvania Seen
Opposing Curb On Guns

PITTSBURGH (AP)—There's strong sentiment against gun control laws in Western Pennsylvania, but not in the eastern end of the state, says Sen. Joseph Clark.

The Democratic senator, seeking his third term in November, says his support of gun control legislation is hurting his campaign in the west and apparently helping it in the east.

"Gun control is hurting some in Western Pennsylvania where hunters are in the majority," Clark told a news conference Friday.

He was asked: "Aren't there any hunters in Philadelphia?"

"Not to the same extent," answered Clark. "I get a big cheer in Philadelphia when I mention proposed gun control legislation."

Finley Loses Bid
For His Release

An East Liverpool youth sentenced to the Ohio State Reformatory 45 days ago for two burglaries lost a motion for release Friday in Common Pleas Court at Lisbon.

Judge Joel H. Sharp denied a request from counsel for John (Bill) Finley, 19, formerly of 820 Highland Ave., that the concurrent 1-to-20-year sentences be suspended and that he be placed on probation.

The court sentenced Finley May 29 for burglaries last Dec. 14 at the Petrosol Service Station on Pennsylvania Ave. and at the Sunoco Service Station on Route 170 at St. Clair Ave. Ext. in Calcutta. Finley pleaded guilty to the Petrosol burglary after a Common Pleas Court jury found him guilty in the other case.

Escapes Surrender

To Ashtabula Deputies

JEFFERSON, Ohio (AP)—Two prisoners who allegedly slugged a guard and broke out of the Ashtabula County Jail Thursday night were back in custody today facing escape charges.

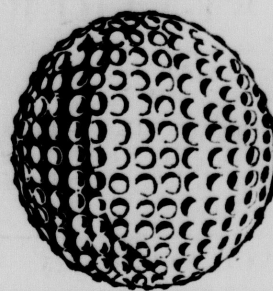

The two, Kenneth R. Nogal, 19, and Nicky Weatherman, 25, both of Ashtabula, surrendered Friday to deputies at a house on the west side of Ashtabula.

They escaped by overpowering Sgt. Lloyd A. Lafferty when the deputy opened a jail cell to give Nogal some aspirin.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — There's strong sentiment against gun control laws in Western Pennsylvania, but not in the eastern end of the state, says Sen. Joseph Clark.

The Democratic senator, seeking his third term in November, says his support of gun control legislation is hurting his campaign in the west and apparently helping it in the east.

"Gun control is hurting some in Western Pennsylvania where hunters are in the majority," Clark told a news conference Friday.

He was asked: "Aren't there any hunters in Philadelphia?"

"Not to the same extent," answered Clark. "I get a letter in Philadelphia when I mention proposed gun control legislation."

Finley Loses Bid For His Release

An East Liverpool youth sentenced to the Ohio State Reformatory 45 days ago for two burglaries lost a motion for release Friday in Common Pleas Court at Lisbon.

Judge Joel H. Sharp denied a request from counsel for John (Bill) Finley, 19, formerly of 820 Highland Ave., that the concurrent 1-to-20-year sentences be suspended and that he be placed on probation.

The court sentenced Finley May 29 for burglaries last Dec. 14 at the Petrosol Service Station on Pennsylvania Ave. and at the Sunoco Service Station on Route 170 at St. Clair Ave. Ext. in Calcutta. Finley pleaded guilty to the Petrosol burglary after a Common Pleas Court jury found him guilty in the other case.

Escapes Surrender To Ashtabula Deputies

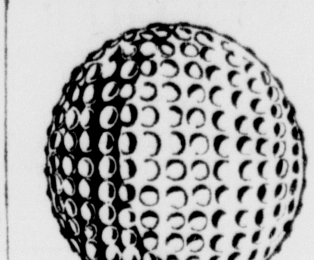

JEFFERSON, Ohio (AP) — Two prisoners who allegedly slugged a guard and broke out of the Ashtabula County Jail Thursday today facing escape charges.

The two, Kenneth R. Nogal, 19, and Nicky Weatherman, 25, both of Ashtabula, surrendered Friday to deputies at a house on the west side of Ashtabula. They escaped by overpowering Sgt. Lloyd A. Lafferty when the deputy opened a jail cell to give Nogal some aspirin.

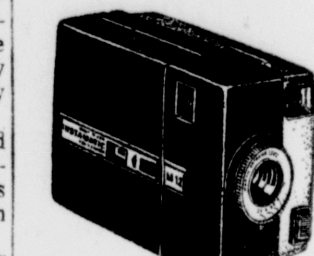

Closing Order Lists 10 Ohio Post Offices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten Ohio fourth-class post offices are among the 347 in the country ordered closed by the Post Office Department.

Closing effective Aug. 2 will be post offices in Edenton, Farmer, Fultonham, Graysville, Robins, Stillwater and Winkle.

Banner Sets Acquisition Of Company In Ontario

An agreement for the acquisition of Progressive Welder Canada Limited was announced today by Banner Industries.

Banner Industries, created last January with the merger of Patterson Industries which operates the Patterson Division in East Liverpool, and Banner, a store chain, said Progressive Welder, based at Chatham, Ontario, is a designer and manufacturer of standard and automated welding equipment.

Progressive's current annual sales amount to $600,000.

The acquisition, the second for Cleveland-based Banner Industries in the past three months, would be accomplished for an undisclosed amount of cash.

Samuel J. Krasney, chairman and chief executive officer of Banner, said that the acquisition would further the company's position as a supplier of products to Canadian industry. The company, through its Patterson Industries (Canada) Ltd. subsidiary, located in Toronto, supplies blending, agitating, mixing, sifting, drying and grinding equipment as well as process systems in Canada.

Progressive Welder manufactures standard spot, projection, seam and flash welding equipment as well as custom designed automated welding lines for specific applications. The company also operates a non-ferrous foundry for the manufacture of resistance welding alloy castings.

Last October, Patterson Industries, directed by Banner's present management, acquired Dubie - Clark Company, Inc., manufacturer of missile containers. Last April, Banner acquired Unitane Corporation, Cleveland manufacturer of blow-molded polyethylene containers.

Krasney said that the acquisition of Progressive Welder reflected the Banner Industries policy of building product depth through the addition of companies in fields allied to those in which Banner is active.

Banner Industries, its shares traded in the American Stock Exchange, previously reported net income of $537,829, or 15 cents a share, on sales of $13,221,399 for the first nine months of the fiscal year ended June 30. Final figures for the year are not yet available.

Merrill Hall Is Speaker

Housing Project Outlined At Meeting Of Lions Club

The proposed public housing project for the elderly was discussed by Merrill Hall, director of the Columbiana County Metropolitan Housing Authority during the Lions Club luncheon Friday at the Travelers Hotel.

Those qualifying for residency in the buildings fall into two categories, Hall explained. The first group is made up of low-income families, which must consist of at least two members. Women with two or more illegitimate children will be excluded, he pointed out.

THE SECOND group is the low-income elderly. Qualifications include 62 or more years of age and an income of $2,600 or less and little or no other capital. Maximum income for an elderly couple is $3,600, Hall continued.

Rent is based on a formula of no more than 25 per cent of the person's income nor less than $30 per month.

Benefits include "decent, respectable residence, fraternity, common interests with neighbors and mutual care," Hall explained.

Rules established for the well-being of the occupant include closing the building to the public after 5 p.m. Residents will have keys to the door and be able to come and go as they please, Hall pointed out. Children will not be able to stay with their parents, but arrangements can be made to stay over night.

A "NUISANCE" clause has been added which permits the director to evict any occupant for intoxication, disorderly conduct, tardiness in paying rent and destruction of property.

A card file will be kept on each resident outlining his history and personal preferences, Hall said.

Veterans and the handicapped will be given preference when selecting tenants, Hall added.

Bids for the construction of the 11-story, 130-unit structure will be opened July 23, Hall reported. The building, which will be located on Moore St. in the west end of the city will have two elevators, a library, recreation room and TV room.

Bids must be approved by the district office at Chicago before they can be accepted, Hall said.

day with Utility Workers of America.

A statement was issued today by Dominic Martino of Steubenville, president of IBEW Local 696, and Frank Adams of Washington, district representative of the union.

"The strike against the Ohio Power Company by Locals 696 and 981 of the IBEW, representing approximately 420 employees in the Newark, Zanesville, Cambridge, Steubenville, and East Liverpool operating areas of the company, in addition to employees who maintain high voltage long distance transmission lines throughout the entire area serviced by the company, is one that is long past due and is now the climax of many attempts over a period of years by the union at so-called free collective bargaining with an operating management that is dictated policy by financiers in a corporation housed in New York who apparently have never been able to see and recognize full value of the human element so important and necessary to successful operations.

"Because of this, contract negotiations have been more like a frustrated marathon of futility. The end result of each being that the union members bent to accept what was presented by the company on a take it or leave it basis until the rates of pay and working conditions now reflect a low second class status for the employees as compared to employees of other electric utility companies in Ohio.

"We now come to exercise our economic strength for the purpose of trying to get the controlling powers in New York to realize that the time has come for this, one of the larger electric utilities in the state, to bring rates of pay and conditions up to at least the equal of those enjoyed by other employees doing identical work for the other electrical companies in the state.

"We have stood on the bottom rung of the ladder long enough."

Records Stolen Before Loan Due Project By OEO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Results of a six-month study into a federal antipoverty program in Alabama were stolen, a congressman says, just before final approval of an $800,000 loan.

Democrat William Nichols of Alabama said the General Accounting Office, after some delay, formally notified him of the theft Friday. GAO, an investigatory arm of Congress, was conducting the inquiry.

Nichols said he already had learned from other sources that the results of the probe into an Office of Economic Opportunity project in 10 counties were stolen from a GAO staffer's car outside a Selma, Ala., motel July 3.

He said the theft came at the right moment to prevent any adverse results the report may have contained from delaying the loan to the Southwest Alabama Farmers Cooperative.

Nichols said he and fellow Alabama Democratic Reps. George W. Andrews and Armistead J. Selden Jr., had asked for the investigation, which began last January, after complaints from area residents.

Crucible Has 200% Boost In Earnings

Crucible Steel Corporation today reported an increase in net earnings of nearly 200 per cent for the second quarter of 1968, compared with the same period in 1967.

Second quarter 1968 consolidated net income rose to $3,715,000, or $86 a share, on sales of $75,193,000, compared with a net income of $1,242,000 or $29 a share, on sales of $71,911,000 a year ago.

Earnings per share for the first half of 1968 amount to $1.71 versus $97 in 1967, up 76 per cent, on a sales increase of less than one per cent. Net income so far this year is $7,325,000 on sales of $151,639,000, compared with $4,148,000 on sales of $150,314,000 mid-way through 1967.

Crucible president John C. Lobb called the second quarter performance "close to the true earning power" of the company.

"The second half of the year won't be as strong as the first," he cautioned, "due to inventory build-up in the face of a strike threat. However, 1968 will obviously be a much improved year over 1967."

Crucible will continue to operate whether or not a strike hits the basic industry after the July 31 contract expiration date because the important specialty steel maker signed a no-strike agreement with the USW more than two months ago.

Lobb added that provisions for the recently enacted 10 per cent Federal income tax surcharge "reduced corporate net operating income by $1.6 a share in the first six months of this year."

Russians Set To Quit Their Czech Posts

PRAGUE (AP) — An estimated 3,000 Soviet troops—whose prolonged stay was viewed by some observers as a threat to Czechoslovakia's more liberal course—will begin leaving today, Soviet officials said, following a request for withdrawal "without delay."

Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, visiting Sweden, denied reports that Czechs were alarmed over the two-week delay in withdrawing Russian troops since the end of Warsaw Pact maneuvers in Czechoslovakia.

"The Czechs never worried about it. It's only the Western press," Kosygin told newsmen Friday.

In Prague, however, a store clerk said of the Soviet presence: "I would gladly go and help them pack if they want me to."

Polish troops who took part in the maneuvers also prepared to depart, but awaited final clearance from the Warsaw Pact Command, headed by Soviet Marshal Ivan Yakubovsky, the Czechoslovak news agency CTK reported. Hungarian units were reported to have left earlier this week.

On the eve of the scheduled Russian withdrawal, the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia warned Czechoslovakia to beware of liberal "counterrevolutionaries" seeking to destroy their Communist party. The paper echoed an attack on Czech liberals Thursday by the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda. It did not repeat, however, Pravda's comparison of the Czech situation with the 1956 Hungarian revolt, which was crushed by Soviet tanks.

CHICAGO (AP) — A high federal mediation official today joins the mounting efforts to settle a telephone strike that threatens removal of next month's Democratic National Convention from Chicago.

Beating Case Quiz Goes On

Sheriff Russell J. Van Fossan is continuing an investigation into the beating early Friday of Carl Young Sr., 70, of Grimms Bridge Rd.

In a side development of the case yesterday, Kenneth Adkins, 24, of 2216 Crawford Ave., East Liverpool; William Landy, address unknown, and Mrs. Anna Ludwig, 34, of Grimms Bridge Rd., were charged with contributing to the delinquency of her four children.

Carl Ludwig, the father, filed the charges in Juvenile Court. Mrs. Ludwig is the daughter of Young.

Young told deputies two men parked in front of his house about 1 a.m. and went to the home of his daughter behind his house. The daughter and her children were living temporarily with an East End family.

Young said he got his shotgun and was "jumped" as he ordered the men to come out. The gun went off in the tussle, but no one was hit.

Young said the men roughed him up, took the gun and left. He gave the car's license number to authorities. Deputy Richard Koffel and Constable Chester Brown of St. Clair Township chased the car through East End near the state line. The driver stopped the car abruptly, jumped out and fled up a wooded hillside.

Adkins, the passenger, was questioned yesterday. He said Mrs. Ludwig had asked them to go to her house to get some clothes for her children. The sheriff said Mrs. Ludwig stayed at the Adkins residence Thursday night.

The sheriff is still trying to locate Landy, who was driving the car. No charges have been filed in the beating incident nor has the shotgun been found. Koffel and Brown found a blank cartridge pistol in the car.

Senator Reports History Project On LBJ Tenure

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Republican senator claims to have come upon a White House directive ordering federal departments to begin work on a history of the Johnson administration.

Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware predicted with much snorting Friday the project will give birth to "a Texas version of United States history."

Williams made public what he said was a memorandum from Joseph A. Califano, special presidential assistant, ordering government departments to prepare in detail a written record of significant events during Johnson's years as president.

Four Are Injured In Rt. 39 Accident

Four were injured in a highway accident near the Wells-ville city limits early this morning.

Details of the mishap were not yet available as officers of the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon continued their investigation.

In "fair" condition at City Hospital are William Knickerbocker of Conneaut Lake, Pa., right arm and shoulder injuries, and Randy Babb of Salem, lacerations of the nose and abrasions of both legs.

Ray Stewart of Salineville RD 1, the third passenger in the car driven by David Knickerbocker of Salineville RD 1, was treated at City Hospital, then transferred to Rochester General Hospital, where he was treated and released.

David Knickerbocker, was treated for lacerations of the right eyelid and multiple contusions of the arms and legs.

The patrol said the accident occurred on Route 39 at 3.14 a.m.

CHICAGO (AP) — A high federal mediator official today joins the mounting efforts to settle a telephone strike that threatens removal of next month's Democratic National Convention from Chicago.

Beating Case Quiz Goes On

Sheriff Russell J. Van Fossan is continuing an investigation into the beating early Friday of Carl Young Sr., 70, of Grimms Bridge Rd.

In a side development of the case yesterday, Kenneth Adkins, 24, of 2216 Crawford Ave., East Liverpool; William Landy, address unknown, and Mrs. Anna Ludwig, 34, of Grimms Bridge Rd., were charged with contributing to the delinquency of her four children.

Carl Ludwig, the father, filed the charges in Juvenile Court. Mrs. Ludwig is the daughter of Young.

Young told deputies two men parked in front of his house about 1 a.m. and went to the home of his daughter behind his house. The daughter and her children were living temporarily with an East End family.

Young said he got his shotgun and was "jumped" as he ordered the men to come out. The gun went off in the tussle, but no one was hit.

Young said the men roughed him up, took the gun and left.

He gave the car's license number to authorities. Deputy Richard Koffel and Constable Chester Brown of St. Clair Township chased the car through East End near the state line. The driver stopped the car abruptly, jumped out and fled up a wooded hillside.

Adkins, the passenger, was questioned yesterday. He said Mrs. Ludwig had asked them to go to her house to get some clothes for her children. The sheriff said Mrs. Ludwig stayed at the Adkins residence Thursday night.

The sheriff is still trying to locate Landy, who was driving the car. No charges have been filed in the beating incident nor has the shotgun been found. Koffel and Brown found a blank cartridge pistol in the car.

Club Holds Outing

Sixteen members of the Friendship Club held an outing Thursday, with noon luncheon at Morgan's in Boardman.

The next meeting will feature a coverdinner at noon Aug. 8 at Willow Grove Park. Hostesses will be Mrs. Clyde Armstrong and Mrs. Bertha Lodge.

500 Prizes Awarded

The diversion was 500 Thursday night when Mrs. Carman Jeropoli was hostess to the QOW club at her home on W. Chestnut St.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Jack Hall and Mrs. Leo Chamberlain. Mrs. Nick Rodi of E. Pine St. will receive the club July 25.

Homicide Ruling Set In Youngstown Death

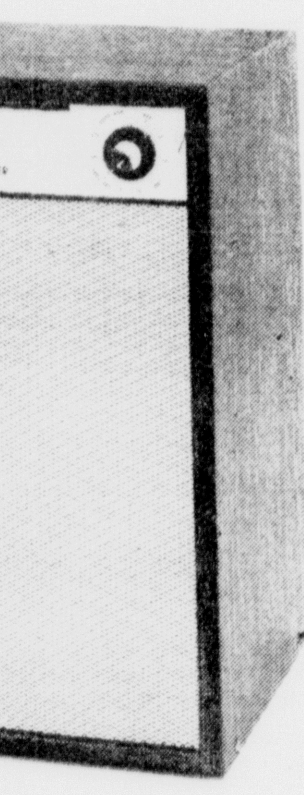

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Mahoning County Coroner David A. Belinsky has ruled homicide in the fatal beating of a Sharon, Pa., man found Friday on a tree lawn on Youngstown's east side.

Belinsky said Edward Gallagher, 52, died of a ruptured aorta. He also had fractured ribs and head injuries.

Gallagher was found outside a vacant house on Fruit Street. His auto was parked behind the house and police said he apparently was robbed.

In 1950, several enterprising Peruvians started seining for anchovies, the three to six-inch-long member of the anchovy family. Some were processed as hors d'oeuvres but most were ground into fish meal, a high-protein poultry and livestock feed.

Czech 'Counter-Revolutionists'

The Communist rulers of the Soviet Union are great for revolution but apparently they have no taste at all for counterrevolution.

Reports emanating from Moscow indicate the Soviet high command is more than a little concerned about the democratic reforms under way in the satellite nation of Czechoslovakia.

For the first time since Russia began to indicate its disapproval of the Czech government's granting of greater freedoms to its people, the term "counterrevolution" has been used.

THE TERM "counterrevolution," in Communist terminology, is one of the deadliest threats that can confront a Marxist regime.

The term was used to denounce a manifesto signed by 70 Czech intellectuals who are demanding a purge of conservative (Russian-type) Communists, claiming they are obstructing the country's reform program.

So concerned is the Russian "establishment" that the Soviet Union and four of its East European allies sent messages to Czechoslovakia demanding a summit meeting with Czech leaders to discuss "antisocialist" tendencies within the nation.

APPARENTLY REVOLUTION is fine with the Russians as long as it destroys another country and brings it within the Communist world but revolution, or counterrevolution as they choose to call it, is a horse of another color when it could mean a captive country might be striving to break free from the shackles of conservative communism.

Can we expect a new physical "iron curtain" around Czechoslovakia to suppress the Czechs' bid for freedoms.

New City Hazard

Opening of the W. 9th St. ramp brings a special traffic hazard to which motorists and residents of the Sunnyside area should be alert.

A dead-end street since sliced by the Free-way several years ago, 9th St. has been a scene of leisurely paced traffic with children playing and pedestrians crossing with little regard for autos.

Return of cars and trucks to the narrow street which serves as a convenient link between Dresden Ave. and Lisbon St. calls for caution on the part of all drivers and special care by all the residents of the district, especially children who have come to depend upon the right-of-way as almost a playground.

Speeding of motorists or cyclists or failure of parents to educate their youngsters to this new traffic condition can lead to tragedy before the summer is out.

Start Pulling The Drapes

Talk about supersleuths — they've developed one now to put all others to shame. In fact it may be so good that it will drive all kinds of human activity underground—literally.

It could create a boom in drapery material and cause untold numbers of ordinary citizens to develop a quick over-the-shoulder glance as a habit.

Essentially, the new device is a laser beam which, bounced from afar on a room window, can pick up the conversation within the room and is virtually undetectable. More than that, under present law it seems to be perfectly legal.

THE LASER SLEUTH was developed in Great Britain and has presented its developer with problems of morals, involved in its use.

It works this way. Sound waves within a room set up minute vibrations on a window pane. The pure light of the laser beam, reflected on the window from outside, converts the vibrations to light waves and carries them back to another vibrator that reconverts them to sound.

Apparently the laser's magnificent eavesdropping capacity is so great that it can operate from any distance as long as the window is in sight.

International espionage, industrial espionage, private detective work — consider the effect on these of the new laser device.

Individuals are going to have to behave better and more morally or stand a greater chance of being found out. Industries and governments will have to take new measures to guard against the long-distance eavesdroppers.

YOU CAN STILL MEET in windowless rooms or draw the drapes or install double windows or use pencils to transact your business instead of your tongue, and thus foil the long-range "bugs."

But what do you do when they develop a beam that will do the same thing as the "window laser" where there are only solid walls?

Be Patient

The state of Ohio will be busy from now until November painting center and edge lines on state and federal highways in Buckeye land.

The paint and reflective beads will cost a total of $861,000 but there probably isn't an Ohio motorist alive that hasn't been thankful for those lines at one time or another.

They are especially helpful during heavy rainstorms or when the lights of an oncoming auto prove troublesome. The danger of a fog condition also is lessened by the edge lines.

So if you are temporarily inconvenienced by one of the paint trucks moving at a snail's pace of 12 mile per hour, just remember the advantages of the lines and be patient.

State Department Change

The erosion of influence of the U.S. State Department in policy making points up the change that has taken place in American diplomacy since the end of World War II.

The State Department did not play a dominant role in the power politics of 1962 that forced the Soviet Union to pull its missiles out of Cuba, nor is it in a position of leadership in the Vietnam peace talks now under way in Paris.

THE CHIEF AMERICAN negotiator at the talks is W. Averell Harriman, an experienced but noncareer diplomat, and the second man is Cyrus R. Vance, a former deputy secretary of defense.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is a hard liner on Vietnam. Hence, his counsel does not fall in line with the conciliatory position taken in recent months by President Johnson.

The Constitution empowers the president to grant his secretary of state as much authority as he sees fit. Therefore, the influence exerted by the secretary of state and his department depends upon his relationship with the president.

Many presidents have found the State Department difficult to work with. President Kennedy has been quoted as comparing the department to a "bowl of jelly." President Johnson once complained that the department was an impenetrable bureaucracy.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT must share the conduct of foreign affairs with the Pentagon and the Central Intelligence Agency and specialized agencies like the Agency for International Development, U.S. Information Agency and the Peace Corps.

The special agencies are under nominal State Department supervision but maintain their own staffs and operate independently.

With the trend toward an American military posture growing steadily after World War II, it was natural for the State Department to assume a lesser role.

History may show this was a serious mistake. Perhaps a greater emphasis on diplomacy would have precluded a greater reliance on military power — and might have avoided the terrible scourge to our nation that Vietnam has become.

The fact that diplomacy is being used in Paris to try and undo the damage caused by a military mistake, may be a hint of how American foreign policy will be conducted in the future.

The Greatest Show On Earth

VICTOR RIESEL

Labor Chief Explains COPE

WASHINGTON — Insiders know Al Barken as one of the land's most important political strategists — because, for the most part, during political campaigns he stays inside the "machine."

If any man knows every vital precinct in this nation, Al Barken does. And so he's consulted by every liberal hopeful, every liberal candidate, and by President Johnson and the White House Staff.

Why? Because Al Barken, whirlwindish, machine gun-tongued and indefatigable, is the central force behind the AFL-CIO's political machine, probably the best not only in the U.S., but unmatched anywhere in the free world.

He is Director of COPE, the Committee on Political Education of the AFL-CIO. I asked him how it's done.

Not with mirrors, said he, but with futuristic data processing.

Here is his answer as he wrote it:

By ALEXANDER E. BARKEN
Director of the AFL-CIO's
Committee on Political Education

WASHINGTON — This is the fourth presidential — and seventh national — campaign the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education has engaged in since COPE was formed in 1955 as the united successor to the old CIO Political Action Committee and the AFL Labor's League for Political Education.

We hope this will be our best. Certainly, in terms of organization and efficiency — in terms of registering union members and getting out the vote — it will be. In terms of results? Well, we'll have to wait for November for the answer to that one.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED since 1956, COPE's first campaign, when we endorsed Adlai Stevenson for president and worked for his election. He lost to Dwight Eisenhower by some nine million votes. We improved on that subsequently: We backed John F. Kennedy in 1960 and Lyndon B. Johnson in 1964.

Not only have times changed. Political techniques have changed with them. They have changed — in one respect, at least — dramatically:

The computer has made the scene in politics. It promises to revolutionize campaign organization of political groups as television has revolutionized campaign procedures of political candidates.

Television shunted whistle-stop tours off the track as a primary means of reaching the voters. Now the computer will shoulder aside the old heter-skelter methods political groups use to reach their partisans.

We are proud that COPE has taken the lead in applying data processing techniques to politics. We are frankly hopeful it will enable us to help elect more liberal candidates to public office.

But beyond that — and of equal importance — we view it as a means to involve larger numbers of union members in politics, to get them registered, to get them to the polls, to get them active in the COPE program in their communities. We feel in this way labor's political program makes an important contribution to the democratic process.

Right now, our data processing-in-politics program is still in its infancy. It is being tried out in only seven states. There are a lot of kinks to iron out. But we have learned enough about it to understand it has immense potential as a political tool.

The language of computer technology is as obscure as Sanskrit. Yet, the capacity of data processing to perform usefully in politics is clear, and what it does is tangible.

IT ABSORBS AND COLLATES information, and produces it at the push of a button in concise, usable form for a political campaign.

In COPE's case — though this explanation is oversimplified — we feed politics data on union members into a computer and out pops, when needed, a quick, easy and accurate political mailing directly to the homes of our members.

Even more important is the computer's role in making efficient political organization possible right down to the precinct and neighborhood level.

Any politician, any party functionary, anyone engaged in politics actively, will confess that achieving effective precinct organization is his biggest headache and toughest challenge. Certainly, this has been our experience.

We are finding the computer makes this age-old problem of political campaigning manageable. Assuming the computer has been fed accurate data, and assuming successful recruitment of ward and precinct leaders and teams of workers, the computer permits them to zero in on voters selectively with a minimum of wasted time and effort.

The computer prints out "walking lists" for precinct workers to take in hand and go through their neighborhoods by phone or on foot and locate just the people they want to reach. In our case, of course, this is union members.

Our program now is operative in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Texas, California, Colorado, Oklahoma, Maryland and the Washington, D.C., area, including its Maryland and Virginia suburbs. We hope to expand it in future years.

We hope, too, to use it in all kinds of political campaigns, for its application is possible in any kind of election, from local school board to president of the United States. We feel all elections are important, whether national or local, and we try to make politics a year-around, year-in-year-out function of the labor movement and its members.

WE WANT TO BE as modern and effective in our political education and action as possible. Hence, the use of data processing.

But even data processing and any other modern techniques that might come along will not convert into a reality a certain myth that frequently finds its way into political columnists' writings: The myth of a "labor vote."

Let's lay that myth to rest here and now. There is no "labor vote." COPE does not pretend there is and never has. Nor do we presume to "deliver" the undeliverable.

Union members reflect the community at large. There are Republicans, as well as Democrats and independents, among them. They are not waiting to be led by the nose to the voting booth to vote as we wish.

All we hope to achieve by political action is to inform union members on issues and candidates' records, to convince them of the importance of registering and voting and to persuade them to vote for candidates COPE endorses. That is all there is to it. Often, we succeed. Sometimes, we fail.

In 1968, we hope to succeed. We make no bones about the fact we want to help elect a liberal president and a liberal congress to enact progressive programs for all Americans: Programs to make the cities better places to live and to replace the despair and joblessness in their ghettos with hope and jobs, programs for better education, better health care, better housing, fuller employment, human rights, control of crime.

In a political year as hectic, as confused and as unpredictable as this one, we're making no bets. But we'll be in there pitching.

Odd Facts

More than 100,000 different kinds of plants depend upon the bee for their pollination. Without the bee, we should be without many of our most popular fruits and vegetables, such as the pit fruits, berries, pod vegetables, apples, currants, squash, melons, peas, alfalfa, clover, and so on and on.

The first university in what is now the United States was a university at Henricopolis, Virginia. It was established in 1619, but failed to survive the Indian massacres of 1622. The oldest school of higher education still active in the U. S. is Harvard University, which was founded as Newtowne College in 1636.

The gemsbok of Africa, the largest and hand-somest species of antelope, is hunted by natives both for its food and for water. It stores a supply of pure drinking water in its stomach.

The first night airmail in the U.S. was flown in 1921 from Omaha, Nebraska, to Chicago. Bonfires served as airway beacons. Regular night airmail flights and regular transcontinental mail service began in 1924.

RAYMOND MOLEY

A Preview

Richard Nixon's June 27 radio speech was no doubt designed to set the pattern for his campaign against Hubert Humphrey after the conventions—at least so far as domestic issues are concerned. And it is quite likely that Humphrey will pitch his appeal in much the same way, but with certain variations which will be the basis of a choice between the two candidates.

The Nixon speech might have carried the title given to one of Edmund Burke's great state papers, "Thoughts on the Present Discontents."

Nixon bases his argument on the proposition that a considerable number of people in our society are very angry and are making their feelings heard and felt. These people call themselves the "alienated."

AND THERE ARE all the rest of us who are confused about what those other people are angry about and who themselves, in a much more quiet manner, are wondering anxiously where this country is headed. That great majority is searching for leadership which will quiet the discontented and violent and lead the nation back to what is called in the Constitution "domestic tranquility."

Nixon then attributes the anger of some and the anxiety of the many to these causes:

"Society in the mass is losing touch with the individual; the sense of community—of a place of belonging where leaders listen and respond —has crumbled; the power to control decisions immediately affecting the individual's life is vanishing and that unique, precious, inscrutable thing—the individual human mind, heart and spirit—is being injured or neglected or slighted."

This is not an unusual analysis of our society's malaise. It has been said in other campaigns with perhaps less eloquence than Nixon summoned to his occasion. It is quite probable that Humphrey will say much the same thing. The differences between the candidates will not be in this sort of diagnosis. The differences will be in the definition of the causes and the nature of the remedies.

For when Nixon spoke of causes he said that the individual's "alienation" is due to the trend toward centralized power in Washington which began with Democratic rule 35 years ago under Franklin Roosevelt. Nixon assumes that Humphrey is the prisoner of that Democratic record which has culminated in the immense proliferation of programs and policies launched by President Johnson and enacted by a subservient Democratic Congress.

Perhaps Humphrey may admit that the trend toward centralization has gone a bit too far, but his defense will be that these measures were necessary and that they need only more maturity in their administration and a better understanding of them by the individuals who are supposed to be their beneficiaries. Moreover, Humphrey will no doubt call for greater decentralized administration and greater participation in their operation at the local and state level.

Nevertheless, Nixon will press the charge of Humphrey's responsibility as he did in this speech when he mentioned the vice president by name.

It is his conviction that Humphrey has been a party to the policies and programs of the Great Society. Thus, he hopes to put Humphrey on the defensive, just as John F. Kennedy made Nixon in 1960 bear the responsibility for what he alleged as Dwight Eisenhower failures.

MOREOVER, HUMPHREY has to defend not only the Johnson record, but he has a considerable record of his own made in his long years in the Senate. Sometime in that period it was said of him that he had more answers than there were problems.

However, a campaign of this sort in which basic issues will be discussed is not likely to be very exciting. Indeed, I expect that commentators will be saying something in October that the campaign is downright dull.

But that is exactly the sort of educational campaign which the country needs. It has had enough of blood and thunder and personal vituperation. That sort of thing may be left to George Wallace and the New Left.

It is not always what the public wants in a campaign that is best for the well-being of the country.

The fact that diplomacy is being used in Paris to try and undo the damage caused by a military mistake, may be a hint of how American foreign policy will be conducted in the future.

VICTOR RIESEL

Labor Chief Explains COPE

WASHINGTON — Insiders know Al Barken as one of the land's most important political strategists — because, for the most part, during political campaigns he stays inside the "machine."

If any man knows every vital precinct in this nation, Al Barken does. And so he's consulted by every liberal hopeful, every liberal candidate, and by President Johnson and the White House Staff.

Why? Because Al Barken, whirlwindish, machine-gunned and indefatigable, is the central force behind the AFL-CIO's political machine, probably the best not only in the U.S., but unmatched anywhere in the free world.

He is Director of COPE, the Committee on Political Education of the AFL-CIO. I asked him how it's done.

Not with mirrors, said he, but with futuristic data processing.

Here is his answer as he wrote it:
By ALEXANDER E. BARKEN
Director of the AFL-CIO's
Committee on Political Education
WASHINGTON — This is the fourth presidential — and seventh national — campaign the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education has engaged in since COPE was formed in 1955 as the united successor to the old CIO Political Action Committee and the AFL Labor's League for Political Education.

We hope this will be our best. Certainly, in terms of organization and efficiency — in terms of registering union members and getting out the vote — it will be. In terms of results? Well, we'll have to wait for November for the answer to that one.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED since 1956, COPE's first campaign, when we endorsed Adlai Stevenson for president and worked for his election. He lost to Dwight Eisenhower by some nine million votes. We improved on that subsequently: We backed John F. Kennedy in 1960 and Lyndon B. Johnson in 1964.

Not only have times changed. Political techniques have changed with them. They have changed — in one respect, at least — dramatically:

The computer has made the scene in politics. It promises to revolutionize campaign organization of political groups as television has revolutionized campaign procedures of political candidates.

Television shunted whistle-stop tours off the track as a primary means of reaching the voters. Now the computer will reacher aside the old helter-skelter methods political groups use to reach their partisans.

We are proud that COPE has taken the lead in applying data processing techniques to politics. We are frankly hopeful it will enable us to help elect more liberal candidates to public office.

But beyond that — and of equal importance — we view it as a means to involve larger numbers of union members in politics, to get them registered, to get them to the polls, to get them active in the COPE program in their communities. We feel in this way labor's political program makes an important contribution to the democratic process.

Right now, our data processing-in-politics program is still in its infancy. It is being tried out in only seven states. There are a lot of kinks to iron out. But we have learned enough about it to understand it has immense potential as a political tool.

The language of computer technology is as obscure as Sanskrit. Yet, the capacity of data processing to perform usefully in politics is clear, and what it does is tangible.

IT ABSORBS AND COLLATES information, and produces it at the push of a button in concise, usable form for a political campaign.

In COPE's case — though this explanation is oversimplified — we feed politics data on union members into a computer and out pops, when needed, a quick, easy and accurate political mailing directly to the homes of our members.

Even more important is the computer's role in making efficient political organization possible right down to the precinct and neighborhood level.

Any politician, any party functionary, anyone engaged in politics actively, will confess that achieving effective precinct organization is his biggest headache and toughest challenge. Certainly, this has been our experience.

We are finding the computer makes this age-old problem of political campaigning manageable. Assuming the computer has been fed accurate data, and assuming successful recruitment of ward and precinct leaders and teams of workers, the computer permits them to zero in on voters selectively with a minimum of wasted time and effort.

The computer prints out "walking lists" for precinct workers to take in hand and go through their neighborhoods by phone or on foot and locate just the people they want to reach. In our case, of course, this is union members.

Our program now is operative in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Texas, California, Colorado, Oklahoma, Maryland and the Washington, D.C., area, including its Maryland and Virginia suburbs. We hope to expand it in future years.

We hope, too, to use it in all kinds of political campaigns, for its application is possible in any kind of election, from local school board to president of the United States. We feel all elections are important, whether national or local, and we try to make politics a year-around, year-in-year-out function of the labor movement and its members.

WE WANT TO BE as modern and effective in our political education and action as possible. Hence, the use of data processing.

But even data processing and any other modern techniques that might come along will not convert into a reality a certain myth that frequently finds its way into political columnists' writings: The myth of a "labor vote."

Let's lay that myth to rest here and now. There is no "labor vote." COPE does not pretend there is and never has. Nor do we presume to "deliver" the undeliverable.

Union members reflect the community at large. There are Republicans, as well as Democrats and independents, among them. They are not waiting to be led by the nose to the voting booth to vote as we wish.

All we hope to achieve by political action is to inform union members on issues and candidates' records, to convince them of the importance of registering and voting and to persuade them to vote for candidates COPE endorses. That is all there is to it. Often, we succeed. Sometimes, we fail.

In 1968, we hope to succeed. We make no bones about the fact we want to help elect a liberal president and a liberal congress to enact progressive programs for all Americans: Programs to make the cities better places to live and to replace the despair and joblessness in their ghettos with hope and jobs, programs for better education, better health care, better housing, fuller employment, human rights, control of crime.

In a political year as hectic, as confused and as unpredictable as this one, we're making no bets. But we'll be in there pitching.

Odd Facts

More than 100,000 different kinds of plants depend upon the bee for their pollination. Without the bee, we should be without many of our most popular fruits and vegetables, such as the pit fruits, berries, pod vegetables, apples, currants, squash, melons, peas, alfalfa, clover, and so on and on.

The first university in what is now the United States was a university at Henricopolis, Virginia. It was established in 1619, but failed to survive the Indian massacres of 1622. The oldest school of higher education still active in the U. S. is Harvard University, which was founded as Newtowne College in 1636.

The first night airmail in the U.S. was flown in 1921 from Omaha, Nebraska, to Chicago. Bombardiers served as airway beacons. Regular night airmail flights and regular transcontinental mail service began in 1924.

RAYMOND MOLEY

A Preview

Richard Nixon's June 27 radio speech was no doubt designed to set the pattern for his campaign against Hubert Humphrey after the conventions—at least so far as domestic issues are concerned. And it is quite likely that Humphrey will pitch his appeal in much the same way, but with certain variations which will be the basis of a choice between the two candidates.

The Nixon speech might have carried the title given to one of Edmund Burke's great state papers, "Thoughts on the Present Discontents."

Nixon bases his argument on the proposition that a considerable number of people in our society are very angry and are making their feelings heard and felt. These people call themselves the "alienated."

AND THERE ARE all the rest of us who are confused about what those other people are angry about and who themselves, in a much more quiet manner, are wondering anxiously where this country is headed. That great majority is searching for leadership which will quiet the discontented and violent and lead the nation back to what is called in the Constitution "domestic tranquility."

Nixon then attributes the anger of some and the anxiety of the many to these causes:

"Society in the mass is losing touch with the individual; the sense of community—of a place of belonging where leaders listen and respond—has crumbled; the power to control decisions immediately affecting the individual's life is vanishing and that unique, precious, inscrutable thing—the individual human mind, heart and spirit—is being injured or neglected or slighted."

This is not an unusual analysis of our society's malaise. It has been said in other campaigns with perhaps less eloquence than Nixon summoned to their occasion. It is quite probable that Humphrey will say much the same thing. The differences between the candidates will not be in this sort of diagnosis. The differences will be in the definition of the causes and the nature of the remedies.

For when Nixon spoke of causes he said that the individual's "alienation" is due to the trend toward centralized power in Washington which began with Democratic rule 35 years ago under Franklin Roosevelt. Nixon assumes that Humphrey is the prisoner of that Democratic record which has culminated in the immense proliferation of programs and policies launched by President Johnson and enacted by a subservient Democratic Congress.

Perhaps Humphrey may admit that the trend toward centralization has gone a bit too far, but his defense will be that these measures were necessary and that they need only more maturity in their administration and a better understanding of them by the individuals who are supposed to be their beneficiaries. Moreover, Humphrey will no doubt call for greater decentralized administration and greater participation in their operation at the local and state level.

Nevertheless, Nixon will press the charge of Humphrey's responsibility as he did in this speech when he mentioned the vice president by name.

It is his conviction that Humphrey has been a party to the policies and programs of the Great Society. Thus, he hopes to put Humphrey on the defensive, just as John F. Kennedy made Nixon in 1960 bear the responsibility for what he alleged as the Eisenhower failures.

MOREOVER, HUMPHREY has to defend not only the Johnson record, but he has a considerable record of his own made in his long years in the Senate. Sometime in that period it was said of him that he had more answers than there were problems.

However, a campaign of this sort in which basic issues will be discussed is not likely to be very exciting. Indeed, I expect that commentators will be saying something in October that the campaign is downright dull.

But that is exactly the sort of educational campaign which the country needs. It has had enough of blood and thunder and personal vituperation. That sort of thing may be left to George Wallace and the New Left.

It is not always what the public wants in a campaign that is best for the well-being of the country.

Judge Ends City Ban

On Women In Taverns

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Superior Court Judge Robert A. Matthews struck down Friday a city ordinance which barred women from being served in taverns in Bayonne.

Matthews said the World War II ordinance violated the New Jersey Civil Rights Act and the state Constitution.

He wrote, "For some reason, a woman standing or sitting at a bar in the company of men is in the minds of city fathers of Bayonne an occasion of sin."

But, Matthews added, "There is no supporting data for such a conclusion."

Sandy Cranston Marries In Church Of Christ Rites

A full-length gown of Chantilly lace was worn by Miss Sandy Cranston when she became the bride of Gerald Jennings Pridmore June 28 at 7:30 p. m. in the First Church of Christ.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd R. Cranston of Westfield Rd. Her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kyle Pridmore of Park Ave.

THE DOUBLE-RING ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. E. Traylor before an altar background of palms, ferns and candelabra. Mrs. Evelyn Talbot was organist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was fashioned with inserts of nylon tulle and long, pointed sleeves. Her silk illusion veil was attached to a pearl and lace tiara. She carried an arrangement of white carnations and satin streamers centered with an orchid.

Miss Marcie Miller was maid of honor and Miss Julie Tolson bridesmaid. They appeared in full-length gowns of yellow chiffon designed with Empire bodices which were accented with daisies. They wore matching headpieces and carried Colonial bouquets of yellow carnations tied with matching satin streamers.

Keith R. Clutter served as best man. Ushers were Floyd E. Cranston and Carl Miller.

The mother of the bride wore a rose lace ensemble and the bridegroom's mother a green chiffon dress. White accessories and carnation corsage complemented their attire.

A RECEPTION for 50 followed in the social rooms, where Mrs. Vicky Clutter registered guests. A yellow and white color theme was used in decorations. The buffet table was centered with a three-tier cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Aides were Mrs. Vernon Barnes, Mrs. Clyde J. Brooks and Mrs. Robert Keister.

The newlyweds are graduates of East Liverpool High School, the bride in 1968 and her husband in 1967. She is employed at the East Liverpool Convalescent Center and the bridegroom at the Ohio Brass Co. in Newell. They are residing at the Mt. Acre Trailer Court.

Mrs. Keith Clutter entertained with a pre-nuptial shower.

The newlyweds are residing at 500 1/2 Louisiana Ave., Chester.

Arizona and other western points.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew G. McHaffie have returned from Warrenndunes of State Park on Lake Michigan and East Harbor State Park at Port Clinton on Lake Erie.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schmidt have returned from Lake Cheat, W. Va., the Pennsylvania Dutch Country at Lancaster and Phoenixville.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mackall and sons, Kevin and Kent and Mrs. Gail Mackall of Monroeville have returned home after visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Alger.

Mrs. Jess Stewart is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Miller of New Alexandria, Ohio.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Campbell Jr. were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schreckengost of Kennewick, Wash., Julia Small of Vancor, a nd Marion Campbell and Chester Burns of Parkersburg, W. Va. The Campbells and their daughter are now visiting James Bargerstock of Oconomowoc, Wis.

HOOKSTOWN — Installation ceremonies planned Aug. 16 by the Auxiliary of South Side American Legion Post 9542 have been postponed due to a conflict in scheduled activities. A new date will be set.

The Auxiliary will serve public dinners Aug. 23 and 24 at the post home.

Mary Ann Reardon, president, announced that grave markers for deceased members have arrived.

The next meeting will be Aug. 9.

More than 15,000 Elks and members of their families are expected to attend. A highlight of the convention will be a talk by Gen. Lewis W. Walt, former commander of Marine forces in Vietnam and currently deputy commandant of the Marine Corps.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Eaton have concluded visits with Mr. and Mrs. Lambert Shafer of Parkersburg, W. Va., Mrs. Opal Sines of Duncan Falls, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Strickler of Westport, Md. Jeannette Llewellyn of Long Beach, Calif., is a house guest of the Eatons.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Graham of Hawthorne, Calif., former local residents, visited here recently.

Terri Mackall is visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Warder of Winter Haven, Fla.

Mrs. Albert Carlson of East Liverpool and Miss Sue Snow of Columbus visited here Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brandon and family have returned from a vacation in California, Texas.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Seventeenth-century wit Tom Brown, while a student at Oxford, was threatened with expulsion for some offense. Brown won a pardon when he met Dean John Fell's challenge to make an immediate English paraphrase of Latin poet Marial's 33rd epigram. The immortal retort was: "I do not love thee, Dr. Fell! Miss Yugoslavia Samples Latest U.S. Music Hits

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Communist world's first entry in the Miss Universe Pageant, an aspiring music critic from Yugoslavia, got a taste of American music when she ventured into the ear-splitting din of a cellar night club.

Daliborka Stojic-Dali for short—speaks almost no English. But she clapped hands and sang lyrics she'd memorized to such rousers as "Michael, Row the Boat Ashore," and a jazzed-up version of "Oklahoma."

"One week after a new song comes out in America, we are singing it in Yugoslavia," she said.

Contest rules limited the 23-year-old blonde to ginger ale in the night club. But her bubbling enthusiasm was unbridled. She shook noise makers and squealed often during a small party hosted by Daniel Lister at his oceanfront Marco Polo Hotel.

Miss Yugoslavia faces final judging tonight but already has won more attention than any of her 64 contest rivals. She clicked with American press photographers who gave her their "Miss Pixable" trophy.

Contest judges picked her among the 15 shapeliest in swimsuits. And about 80 U.S. servicemen wrote her letters after seeing Dali's 38-28-30 figure in the military newspaper Stars and Stripes. All were answered with at least an autograph.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. — How can I prepare some really good bread sticks?

A. — Make them from frankfurters by quartering them lengthwise. Spread the cut slices of all sides with soft butter or salad oil, roll in minced parsley, chives, or grated Parmesan cheese, and bake at 425 degrees for five to ten minutes. Other such cookery tips are included in my household book.

Q. — How can I keep copper bright looking?

A. — By rubbing with a cut lemon and salt. It's best not to use steel wool on these items, since steel particles can become embedded in the metal and rust later on.

Q. — How can I remove lipstick stains from white linens?

A. — By soaking in strong vinegar. If the stain is on colored material, use equal parts of vinegar and water.

Q. — What is your "formula" for removing a very tight-fitting ring from the finger?

A. — Very seldom is a tight ring unremovable after the hand has been held in ice-cold soapsuds for a few minutes.

Q. — How can I make a good duster for use on plush or mohair upholstery?

A. — A chamois wrung out of cold water does an excellent job.

Q. — How can I clean pans that have been scorched by food adhering to them?

A. — Sprinkle baking soda into the pans, let stand awhile, then scour clean.

Italians Eye Pace Setters In Fashions

ROME (AP) — French haute couture houses had better pay heed to the new trumpet call of the fashion world: The Italians are coming!

At their fall-winter showing, opening in Rome today, Italian houses seek the acclaim from buyers and critics that could make them the pacesetters in style, design and hem length.

The Italians have gained in reputation each season. In addition to their expert sewing and fine sense of beauty, they have shown the knack for the dressy little gimmick that will catch the critics' eyes and give the ready-to-wear people something to copy quickly.

The colors the Italians seem agreed upon this year are the muted shades of gray, navy, dark green and brown, with a prominent exception—a bright zany red.

With the rise in the Italians' fashion stock came a rise in the fees that store buyers pay to see the collections. In some cases the fees have more than doubled. For a peep at the clothes shown by Italy's leading house, Valentino, buyers had to plunk down $2,800 this year.

Even so every seat was booked today and some buyers were left without seats.

516 Adults Receive Free Chest X-Rays

LISBON — The Cubaniana County Public Health League reports 516 adults (18 and over) received free chest X-rays at the Christmas Seal X-Ray unit Friday afternoon and evening at the East Palestine street fair.

The bus is at the fair again today and will be open until 4 this afternoon and from 6 to 9 tonight.

Clerks said 786 adults were examined Thursday when the cruiser stopped from 4 to 10 p.m. at the St. Clair Plaza in Calcutta.

RFK Press Aide Eyes L.A. Mayoralty Race

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Frank Mankiewicz, press aide to the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, says he is considering running for mayor of Los Angeles.

He said Friday he may fight Mayor Sam Yorty for the post in April's election. Yorty has not indicated whether he would seek a third term as mayor.

WHY??? The answer to that question is simply "temperature." Bacterial life dislikes temperature changes, and, since your septic tank has no heating system to keep things cozy that they can go about their work in comfort, they die off in millions and billions when winter arrives, leaving only a "skeleton crew" of weakened bacteria to handle the heavy loads. Consequently, as winter months pass slowly by, a build-up of undigested grease and solids occurs, clogging the tank and passing through to the disposal fields. Grease congeals and deposits in the pores of the soil, almost to the point of being beyond repair. Melting ice, snow, and spring showers add to the problem of increasing the amount of water entering the system.

HOW SEA-CAL ENZYMES HELP

The powerful digestive powers of the enzymes contained in SEA-CAL rapidly liquefy the hard grease packs in the septic tanks and drainfields, changing such grease and other solids into available food for the bacteria. SEA-CAL also contains 80,000,000 anaerobic bacteria per gram (28 grams in each ounce), and with each bacteria reproducing itself many times a day, the micro-organism population is rapidly built up to adequate numbers, with the ultimate return of full operating efficiency.

CALL

S.O.S. is the accepted call for help from a ship in distress. It was chosen because of its early wireless sending simplicity. The S.O.S. is made up of three dots, three dashes, and three dots again. Today, the motorist in distress has an even simpler call for help . . . AAA Coast-to-coast, 24,000 contract stations provide fast, round-the-clock Emergency Road Service to its more than 10 million AAA members. But that's not the only kind of help they get. Personal accident insurance . . . travel aids and guidance . . . bail and arrest bond protection are just a few of the additional advantages of AAA membership. Call AAA today . . . and be prepared for any future S.O.S.

Judge Ends City Ban

On Women In Taverns

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Superior Court Judge Robert A. Matthews struck down Friday a city ordinance which barred women from being served in taverns in Bayonne.

Matthews said the World War II ordinance violated the New Jersey Civil Rights Act and the state Constitution.

He wrote, "For some reason, a woman standing or sitting at a bar in the company of men is in the minds of city fathers of Bayonne an occasion of sin."

But, Matthews added, "There is no supporting data for such a conclusion."

Sandy Cranston Marries In Church Of Christ Rites

A full-length gown of Chantilly lace was worn by Miss Sandy Cranston when she became the bride of Gerald Jennings Pridemore June 28 at 7:30 p. m. in the First Church of Christ.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd R. Cranston of Westfield Rd. Her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kyle Pridemore of Park Ave.

THE DOUBLE-RING ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. E. Traylor before an altar background of palms, ferns and candelabra. Mrs. Evelyn Talbot was organist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was fashioned with inserts of nylon tulle and long, pointed sleeves. Her silk illusion veil was attached to a pearl and lace tiara. She carried an arrangement of white carnations and satin streamers centered with an orchid.

Miss Marcie Miller was maid of honor and Miss Julie Tolson bridesmaid. They appeared in full-length gowns of yellow chiffon designed with Empire bodices which were accented with daisies. They wore matching headpieces and carried Colonial bouquets of yellow carnations tied with matching satin streamers.

Keith R. Clutter served as best man. Ushers were Floyd E. Cranston and Carl Miller.

The mother of the bride wore a rose lace ensemble and the bridegroom's mother a green chiffon dress. White accessories and carnation corsage complemented their attire.

A RECEPTION for 50 followed in the social rooms, where Mrs. Vicky Clutter registered guests. A yellow- and white color theme was used in decorations. The buffet table was centered with a three-tier cake, topped with a miniature bride couple.

Aides were Mrs. Vernon Barnes, Mrs. Clyde J. Brooks and Mrs. Robert Keister. The newlyweds are graduates of East Liverpool High School, the bride in 1968 and her husband in 1967. She is employed at the East Liverpool Convalescent Center and the bridegroom at the Ohio Brass Co. in Newell. They are residing at the Mt. Acre Trailer Court.

Mrs. Keith Clutter entertained with a pre-nuptial shower.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. — How can I prepare some really good bread sticks?

A. — Make them from frankfurter buns by quartering them lengthwise. Spread the cut sides of all sides with soft butter or salad oil, roll in minced parsley, chives, or grated Parmesan cheese, and bake at 425 degrees for five to ten minutes. Other such cookery tips are included in my household book.

Q. — How can I keep copper bright looking?

A. — By rubbing with a cut lemon and salt. It's best not to use steel wool on these items, since steel particles can become embedded in the metal and rust later on.

Q. — How can I remove lipstick stains from white linens?

A. — By soaking in strong vinegar. If the stain is on colored material, use equal parts of vinegar and water.

Q. — What is your "formula" for removing a very tight-fitting ring from the finger?

A. — Very seldom is a tight ring unremovable after the hand has been held in ice-cold soapsuds for a few minutes.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Seventeenth-century wit Tom Brown, while a student at Oxford, was threatened with expulsion for some offense. Brown won a pardon when he met Dean John Fell's challenge to make an immediate English paraphrase of Latin poet Martial's 33rd epigram. The immortal retort was: "I do not love thee, Dr. Fell! The reason why I cannot tell But this alone I know full well I do not love thee, Dr. Fell."

Miss Yugoslavia Samples Latest U.S. Music Hits

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Communist world's first entry in the Miss Universe Pageant, an aspiring music critic from Yugoslavia, got a taste of American music when she ventured into the ear-splitting din of a cellar night club.

Daliborka Stoisic—Dali for short—speaks almost no English. But she clapped hands and sang lyrics she'd memorized to such rousers as "Michael, Row the Boat Ashore," and a jazzed-up version of "Oklahoma."

"One week after a new song comes out in America, we are singing it in Yugoslavia," she said.

Contest rules limited the 23-year-old blonde to ginger ale in the night club. But her bubbling enthusiasm was unbridled. She shook noisemakers and squealed often during a small party hosted by Daniel Lister at his oceanfront Marco Polo Hotel.

Miss Yugoslavia faces final judging tonight but already has won more attention than any of her 64 contest rivals. She clicked with American press photographers who gave her their "Miss Pixable" trophy.

Contest judges picked her among the 15 shapeliest in swimsuits. And about 80 U.S. servicemen wrote her letters after seeing Dali's 38-28-30 figure in the military newspaper Stars and Stripes. All were answered with at least an autograph.

Miss Jess Stewart is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Miller of New Alexandria, Ohio.

Mill Creek Historical Group Reports Membership Of 544

A membership of 544 was reported when directors of the Mill Creek Valley Historical Association met Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Grace C. Wilson of Racoon Township.

Mrs. Wilson said that the membership rolls have been revised and will include only names of paid-up members. She said those who have not renewed may do so by sending dues to her at Box 329, Aliquippa. Those wishing to join the association also may forward the $1 membership fee to her.

A report on the program for the association's third membership meeting for 1968 was given by Frank Kelsey of Aliquippa RD 1 and Clyde Piquet of Industry.

The meeting will be July 24 at 8 p. m. in Independence School on Route 151 in Independence Township. The theme will be "Pioneer Night," with the program the first in a series designed to feature the history of various areas in the South Side.

It was announced that the association has been accepted as a member of the Pennsylvania Federation of Historical Associations.

Donald Morgan and Norman Littell, co-chairmen of the fair committee, outlined their ideas for the association booth at the Hookstown Fair Aug. 21-24. They said the booth will be situated on the stage of the main building as in the past.

Personnel to man the booth will be contacted shortly, the co-chairmen said. Clifford Smith, chairman of the Museum Room Committee, informed the directors that a sign bearing the name of the association has been placed on the Museum Room door in the new library building on the Beaver County Campus of Penn State University.

Do-It-Yourself Poet Gets Desired Results

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Fruitless years spent trying to interest teen-age schoolboys in poetry led a Johannesburg teacher to write his own material — poems dealing with machines, animals and war.

English teacher David Brindley has his own poetry for adolescent boys published because of "the total lack of suitable textbooks."

Poems about machines, animals and war fascinated boys and helped overcome juvenile prejudice that poetry is "not only slightly effeminate," but also unrelated to reality, Brindley said.

The U. S. Air Force Academy commissioned 205 second lieutenants in its first graduating class at Colorado Springs, Colo., in June of 1959.

After the newspaper ad appeared, more than 100 persons telephoned the Baileys or rang

Burroughs' Son Dies Of Malaria In Service

CLEVELAND — The Rt. Rev. Nelson M. Burroughs, recently retired Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Ohio, and Mrs. Burroughs have received word of the death of their son Robert Nelson Burroughs, serving with the Marine Corps.

Death came Monday on the U. S. hospital ship Sanctuary, 200 miles off the coast of Viet Nam, in the South China Sea. Burroughs became ill with falciparum malaria on Saturday, after serving months of combat duty with Echo Co., 2nd Battalion, 4th Marine Regiment, 3rd Marine Division. For about a month he had been a squad leader of his platoon.

The body will be taken to Chatham, Mass., now the permanent home of the Burroughs family. Services will be held in St. Christopher's Episcopal Church at Chatham.

Regulations Received On Waste Sites

LISBON — The Columbiana County Health Department has received from the Ohio Department of Health regulations governing solid waste disposal sites.

Amended House Bill 623, which became effective July 1, provides for the licensing of all solid waste disposal sites by next Jan. 1.

Harry Stockdale, county sanitarian, said pertinent sections of the regulations will be forwarded to township trustees and village and city officials as soon as they are available.

He said the regulations are for uniform application throughout the state. They deal with the inspection and issuance of licenses for all such sites "in order to assure they will be located, maintained and operated in a sanitary manner so as not to create a nuisance, cause or contribute to water pollution, or create a health hazard."

The regulations have nothing to do with personnel policies, salaries, wages, fringe benefits or other conditions of employment of employees of persons owning or operating solid waste disposal sites.

The board of health of each district "shall provide for the inspection, licensing and enforcement of sanitary standards for solid waste disposal sites." Stockdale said the open dump is a serious problem in the county.

The new regulations provide for a fine of up to $100 for each day of violation.

Giraffe Claimed By Heart Attack

CINCINNATI (AP) — Champ, a 17-foot giraffe, suffered a fatal heart attack at the Cincinnati Zoo Friday as he was being readied for shipment to a zoo at Stewart, Va. The animal was 13-years old.

"We were within 20 minutes of having him loaded onto the truck when he went unconscious," said zoo director Edward J. Maruska.

"I guess the excitement was just too much for him."

Workers said the giraffe "had put up a fight" about the transfer just before he fell unconscious. He was being hoisted into the truck by a crane.

The animal had been at the zoo since he was 6 months old and was valued at $5,000.

Sunday morning during the 11 service Evangelist Clarence H. Barnett of Winona Lake, Ind., will preach. At the 7:30 p. m. service, Rev. Girts again will be the speaker.

Singer's Article Describes Start Of County Clinic

LISBON — The April-May issue of "Ohio's Health" published by the Ohio Department of Health is devoted to cancer control and carries an article by Dr. M. K. Singer, Columbiana County health commissioner.

"Setting Up A Cancer Clinic" deals with the county cancer detection clinic in Health Department offices on the third floor of the Courthouse here.

Dr. Singer obtained a federal grant in 1965 through the Ohio Department of Health for establishing and operating the clinic for a three-year period.

He recently received an extension of the grant.

Dr. Singer credits Dr. William Kolozsi, pathologist at Salem City Hospital and Salem Central Clinic and county coroner, with initiating the idea of a "Pap" clinic program in the county for early detection of cancer of the cervix and uterus.

The health commissioner said Dr. Kolozsi contacted him concerning a "Pap" clinic in the fall of 1964. "The project was to be conducted on a contribution basis and my part as health commissioner was to procure space to house equipment for the clinic. . . however, no money became available for equipment."

Dr. Singer said it was in the spring of 1965 that he learned through Martin Elekes, administrator of the district health office at Cuyahoga Falls, that federal funds were available for such a program.

"The County Medical Society approved the program and Dr. Kolozsi offered to do our screening of slides at the very nominal fee of $1.75," Dr. Singer said.

The clinic began to function Aug. 1, 1965, and through October 1967 (27 months), 2,405 patients had been examined. In October, 1967, 150 women visited the clinic, 70 for the first time.

Dr. Singer also lauded the efforts of Donald Hepp, county welfare director, in sparking interest in the clinic among women who come to his office.

Thief Merely Took A 'Breakfast Break'

SHERIDAN, Wyo. (AP) — The person who broke into a Sheridan cafe apparently was more hungry than larcenously inclined.

Sheridan police said someone broke into the cafe through a small window, fried two eggs, ate four sweet rolls and opened a can of grapefruit juice.

Nothing else was missing.

Often times in talking to people about the salvation of their souls, the subject of punishment comes up. When this subject comes up it is not uncommon to hear people say that they believe that God is just too good to allow punishment to be given. Some will argue against the existence of Hell by saying that our God is just too good to allow such a place to exist.

When such conclusions as this are drawn, we are looking only at one side of the nature of God. We are only considering goodness. However, God is also a God of justice. Justice demands that there be punishment for wrongs that are done. One of the verses in the Bible that will help us to look at both sides of the nature of God is Rom. 11:22. "Behold therefore the goodness and severity of God: on them which fell, severity; but toward thee, goodness, if thou continue in His goodness; otherwise thou shalt be cut off." This verse indicates clearly that God in justice is both good and severe. It also indicates that God's attitude toward me is determined by the things that I do.

This is the reason that it is not correct to talk about God sending men to a place called Hell. If a man goes to Hell it is a matter of his choice. God will not save me if I do not want to be saved. Neither will he punish me unless I choose to disobey and to call that punishment upon myself. Thus in the true sense of the word God is not responsible for any one going to Hell. We make our choice.

That there is a place called Hell cannot be denied by any Bible student. Jesus himself affirmed its existence. Mt. 10:28. "And fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell." This place is also described as a place that burns with fire and brimstone. Rev. 21:8.

Yes, God is good to all of those who will do His will. He is also severe with those who refuse to obey His will.

The choice is entirely yours. If you want to see the goodness of God, you must obey His will. If you are not yet a Christian, you should be seriously considering becoming one. Jesus said that those who believe in Him and who are baptized will be saved. Mk. 16:16. He does not force men to believe on Him and neither does he force men to be baptized. The choice is completely yours. Remember however, that your eternal situation depends on your decision now.

It is true that none can surpass God in goodness but we must not make a mistake of thinking that His goodness will overlook our disobedience.

Mill Creek Historical Group Reports Membership Of 544

A membership of 544 was reported when directors of the Mill Creek Valley Historical Association met Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Grace C. Wilson of Raccoon Township.

Mrs. Wilson said that the membership rolls have been revised and will include only names of paid-up members. She said those who have not renewed may do so by sending dues to her at Box 329, Aliquippa. Those wishing to join the association also may forward the $1 membership fee to her.

A report on the program for the association's third membership meeting for 1968 was given by Frank Kelsey of Aliquippa RD 1 and Clyde Piquet of Industry.

The meeting will be July 24 at 8 p. m. in Independence School on Route 151 in Independence Township. The theme will be "Pioneer Night," with the program the first in a series designed to feature the history of various areas in the South Side.

It was announced that the association has been accepted as a member of the Pennsylvania Federation of Historical Associations.

Donald Morgan and Norman Little, co-chairmen of the fair committee, outlined their ideas for the association booth at the Hookstown Fair Aug. 21-24. They said the booth will be situated on the stage of the main building as in the past.

Personnel to man the booth will be contacted shortly, the co-chairmen said.

Clifford Smith, chairman of the Museum Room Committee, informed the directors that a sign bearing the name of the association has been placed on the Museum Room door in the new library building on the Beaver County Campus of Penn State University.

Do-It-Yourself Poet Gets Desired Results

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Fruitless years spent trying to interest teen-age schoolboys in poetry led a Johannesburg teacher to write his own material — poems dealing with machines, animals and war.

English teacher David Brindley has his own poetry for adolescent boys published because of "the total lack of suitable textbooks."

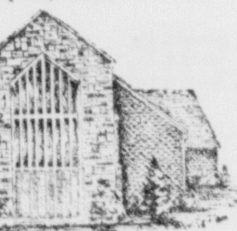

Poems about machines, animals and war fascinated boys and helped overcome juvenile prejudice that poetry is "not only slightly effeminate," but also unrelated to reality, Brindley said.

Missionary Rally Awaited

A missionary rally will highlight the 3 p. m. Sunday program of the tri-state camp meeting of the Rochester District of the Free Methodist Church at the Anderson, Blvd. grounds. The public is invited.

The Rev. A. H. Mathias, Zahniser of Baltimore, Md., who has been working in Egypt, will be the speaker.

The service will be under the direction of the Women's Missionary Society, of which Mrs. Mary Snyder of Weirton is president.

About 300 attended Friday night's service when Evangelist Harry Girts of Newark, N. Y., was the speaker.

Sunday morning during the 11 service Evangelist Clarence H. Barnett of Winona Lake, Ind., will preach. At the 7:30 p. m. service, Rev. Girts again will be the speaker.

Singer's Article Describes Start Of County Clinic

LISBON — The April-May issue of "Ohio's Health" published by the Ohio Department of Health is devoted to cancer control and carries an article by Dr. M. K. Singer, Columbiana County health commissioner.

"Setting Up A Cancer Clinic" deals with the county cancer detection clinic in Health Department offices on the third floor of the Courthouse here.

Dr. Singer obtained a federal grant in 1965 through the Ohio Department of Health for establishing and operating the clinic for a three-year period. He recently received an extension of the grant.

Dr. Singer credits Dr. William Kolozsi, pathologist at Salem City Hospital and Salem Central Clinic and county corner, with initiating the idea of a "Pap" clinic program in the county for early detection of cancer of the cervix and uterus.

The health commissioner said Dr. Kolozsi contacted him concerning a "Pap" clinic in the fall of 1964. "The project was to be conducted on a contribution basis and my part as health commissioner was to procure space to house equipment for the clinic... however, no money became available for equipment."

Dr. Singer said it was in the spring of 1965 that he learned through Martin Elekes, administrator of the district health office at Cuyahoga Falls, that federal funds were available for such a program.

"The County Medical Society approved the program and Dr. Kolozsi offered to do our screening of slides at the very nominal fee of $1.75," Dr. Singer said.

The clinic began to function Aug. 1, 1965, and through October 1967 (27 months), 2,405 patients had been examined. In October, 1967, 150 women visited the clinic, 70 for the first time.

Dr. Singer also lauded the efforts of Donald Hepp, county welfare director, in sparking interest in the clinic among women who come to his office.

Thief Merely Took A 'Breakfast Break'

SHERIDAN, Wyo. (AP) — The person who broke into a Sheridan cafe apparently was more hungry than larcenously inclined.

Sheridan police said someone broke into the cafe through a small window, fried two eggs, ate four sweet rolls and opened a can of grapefruit juice. Nothing else was missing.

A MOMENT OF MEDITATION

Punishment

Often times in talking to people about the salvation of their souls, the subject of punishment comes up. When this subject comes up it is not uncommon to hear people say that they believe that God is just too good to allow punishment to be given. Some will argue against the existence of Hell by saying that our God is just too good to allow such a place to exist. When such conclusions as this are drawn, we are looking only at one side of the nature of God. We are only considering goodness. However, God is also a God of justice. Justice demands that there be punishment for wrongs that are done. One of the verses in the Bible that will help us to look at both sides of the nature of God is Rom. 11:22. "Behold therefore the goodness and severity of God: on them which fell, severity; but toward thee, goodness, if thou continue in His goodness; otherwise thou shalt be cut off." This verse indicates clearly that God in justice is both good and severe. It also indicates that God's attitude toward me is determined by the things that I do. This is the reason that it is not correct to talk about God sending men to a place called Hell. If a man goes to Hell it is a matter of his choice. God will not save me if I do not want to be saved. Neither will he punish me unless I choose to disobey and to call that punishment upon myself. Thus in the true sense of the word God is not responsible for any one going to Hell. We make our choice. That there is a place called Hell cannot be denied by any Bible student. Jesus himself affirmed its existence. Mt. 10:28. "And fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell." This place is also described as a place that burns with fire and brimstone. Rev. 21:8. Yes, God is good to all of those who will do His will. He is also severe with those who refuse to obey His will. The choice is entirely yours. If you want to see the goodness of God, you must obey His will. If you are not yet a Christian, you should be seriously considering becoming one. Jesus said that those who believe in Him and who are baptized will be saved. Mk. 16:16. He does not force men to believe on Him and neither does he force men to be baptized. The choice is completely yours. Remember however, that your eternal situation depends on your decision now. It is true that none can surpass God in goodness but we must not make a mistake of thinking that His goodness will overlook our disobedience.

Girl Bandit Gets $798 From Bank

PITTSBURGH (AP) — She was young—about 16. She cussed. She had a gun.

And she got $798 Friday in a bank stickup, walking out with an automatic pistol tucked in the belt of her tight Capri pants.

Police said the girl jumped into a waiting car driven by a male companion after pulling the robbery at the Uplown branch of Mellon Bank.

A few minutes later, the car was found in the Hill District, its motor still running.

Teller Carol Rossey, 24, said the girl shoved her a brown paper bag and said, "Fill this up. If you push the button, you're dead."

The teller said the girl pulled up her flowered blouse a bit to reveal the pistol stuck in her belt.

Report Given On Road Jobs

Major highway construction contracts in the Ohio Highway Department's Division 11 totaled $68,517,252 at the beginning of July.

Division Deputy Director Levi Kimball informed Highway Director P. E. Masheter in his monthly progress report that the contracts amounted to 65.6 miles and that several are nearing completion.

In Columbiana County, three contracts are active on State Route 11, including the 4.1 mile project from the S.R. 267 interchange to West Point that is 59 per cent complete. The next section stretching 5.9 miles from West Point to the S.R. 154 interchange near Lisbon is 21 per cent complete and about 8 per cent of the work is finished on the 6.6 mile contract from S.R. 154 to S.R. 164 at Copeland Lakes near Columbiana.

On U.S. Route 30, the 0.8 mile improvement over Beacon Hill west of Lisbon is 80 per cent finished.

The report shows 99 per cent of the work finished on the mile-long improvement to S.R. 558 on Franklin Ave. in Salem.

Jefferson County projects include the 3.6-mile S.R. 7 Toronto bypass, 33 per cent finished, and the 2.6-mile relocation of Route 7 from Toronto through Empire, 79 per cent complete.

About 4 per cent of the work is finished on the roadside rest project on State Route 7 at Yellow Creek, near Wellsville.

Two Nabbed With Heroin In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Customs officials stopped two women who seemed a bit bulky about the middle at Kennedy Airport and discovered $4 million worth of heroin taped to their midsections.

An official said Friday that the two Argentinians—a school teacher and a hairdresser—were "undoubtedly couriers" for one of the world's largest heroin smuggling operations. The women were on board a flight from Brazil that arrived Thursday morning.

Sirhan To Enter Plea In Armored Bullpen 'Court'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The man accused of murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy will enter his plea next Friday in a special courtroom fortress.

Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, 24, will step out of his cell on the 13th floor of the Hall of Justice to an armor-plated bullpen serving as a makeshift courtroom. The tank was built around Sirhan's cell.

A judge's bench and portable seats for newsmen will be placed inside the tank.

The trial of the Jordanian immigrant is still expected to be held in the customary eighth-floor courtroom, but any unusual security arrangements in the trial room have yet to be worked out.

The heavy security given Sirhan since the June 5 shooting of Kennedy is the result of numerous threats against his life, Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess said.

Wellsville Firemen Answer Two Alarms

Wellsville firemen answered two calls Friday night — to the homes of John Bodalac at 601 17th St. and Jack Schwartz at 812 12th St.

Flames were shooting from a light fixture at the Bodalac residence, after a short had been caused by a water leak. Firemen cut the wires before any blaze resulted. Chief Robert Lewis said. The call was received at 6:15.

The call to the Schwartz home came at 7:28 when a pile of rags on the floor ignited.

Sirhan To Enter Plea In Armored Bullpen 'Court'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The man accused of murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy will enter his plea next Friday in a special courtroom fortress.

Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, 24, will step out of his cell on the 13th floor of the Hall of Justice to an armor-plated bullpen serving as a makeshift courtroom. The tank was built around Sirhan's cell.

A judge's bench and portable seats for newsmen will be placed inside the tank.

The trial of the Jordanian immigrant is still expected to be held in the customary eighth-floor courtroom, but any unusual security arrangements in the trial room have yet to be worked out.

The heavy security given Sirhan since the June 5 shooting of Kennedy is the result of numerous threats against his life, Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess said.

Wellsville Firemen Answer Two Alarms

Wellsville firemen answered two calls Friday night — to the homes of John Bodalac at 601 17th St. and Jack Schwartz at 812 12th St.

Flames were shooting from a light fixture at the Bodalac residence, after a short had been caused by a water leak. Firemen cut the wires before any blaze resulted. Chief Robert Lewis said. The call was received at 6:15.

The call to the Schwartz home came at 7:28 when a pile of rags on the floor ignited.

Happiness Was A Nice Houseboat

By ROBERT POPP

No grass to cut, no snow to shovel, no hedge to trim, no real estate taxes to pay. . . That was the happy status of the houseboat residents along the banks of the Ohio River a generation or so ago. Though they've all faded from this region now, probably into the humdrum world of the land-dwellers because of prosperity, the houseboat family was a unique and accepted part of the riverfront landscape for many years. A heavy hawser secured the houseboat to a convenient stump, and a flimsy gangplank led from the front deck to the muddy shore. That was the houseboat man's only connection with the land of real estate mortgages, sidewalks and lawns and all the other tangibles that give dimension to the lives of the landlubbers.

HIS FRONT YARD was the broad expanse of the Ohio, green, quiet and shaded in the summer, ice bound at times in the winter, and an angry, surging yellow during the annual spring flood.

Taking his cue from an earlier pioneering strain, he asked only to be left alone. He wanted no truck with outsiders, particularly the ones representing the police and the courts, and any stranger was viewed with serious suspicion.

If the bill collectors or police became too persistent, it was an easy matter to slip the hawser, pull in the gangplank and drift with the inshore current a few miles downstream to new scenery and a new address.

"Shantyboats," some people called them, and the word was an apt description of some of the floating residences tied to the Ohio and West Virginia shores. But others were as neat as any cottage set in a green lawn, with flower boxes on the rail, a fresh coat of sparkling paint and a rocking chair waiting on a spotless deck.

The general architecture of a houseboat left little room for ingenuity in living arrangement. Rooms were connected by doorways end-for-end, since the necessary economy of space would permit no such extravagances as hallways. A narrow deck ran along one side or both, widening at either end into what passed for a porch. The whole thing rode on a flat-bottomed hull resembling a small scow.

ONE OR TWO coal stoves served for heating and cooking. Kerosene lamps sometimes furnished light, although in later years some of the more affluent houseboat dwellers managed utility hookups to the shore, providing themselves with water, electricity and even telephones.

A flood was a time of crisis for the houseboat people. They doubled and redoubled the lines holding their craft to the shore. Often times the receding waters would leave a houseboat stranded on a flat shelf above the water line, to remain there until the next freshet lifted it back into the river again.

But the flood waters provided a bonus in the form of tangible property that could be had for the claiming. The houseboaters took to the river in skiffs and john boats to catch and beach all the myriad items that became water-borne in a flood — everything from assorted lumber and oil drums to tree trunks and chicken houses. Property carried away by the high waters was salvage, ripe for the picking.

The houseboaters' unique position — moored in West Virginia waters, but tied to the Ohio shore — led to all sorts of questions about legal jurisdiction that never were settled adequately.

THE LAND-BOUND majority looked upon them as squatters, persons suspended in a legal limbo that was neither Ohio nor West Virginia.

That satisfied the houseboaters, all right, until it posed a serious problem on what schools their children should attend or which state should issue the relief orders. They didn't trouble themselves with voting and other acts tending to raise questions about legal residence.

It was a uniquely independent life, because the rest of the community forgot about the houseboat man unless he raised a real ruckus or flouted the law in a way that could not be ignored. Generally speaking, he was left to his own devices, free to accept the community's ways if he desired but free to get along by his own rules, if he wished.

Fishing helped with the food supply. And many of the houseboaters managed to raise lush little gardens in the fertile soil of the river bottoms. Some worked regularly, some didn't, but they managed to survive in undiminished numbers for several generations.

THEY CLUNG to their unusual habitats despite sporadic efforts in several communities to persuade them to untie their craft and drift away downstream. Local do-gooders pointed out the houseboats were moored on public property or — worse yet — private property. The U.S. Corps of Engineers regarded them as a navigation hazard and an eyesore along the shores, but they managed to evade a showdown with the federal government.

Affluence, or the waning of the pioneer spirit, finally did in the thinning ranks of the clan. The younger generations, with money in their jeans, acquired homes on land like everybody else. The oldsters died off, or gave up the river life for lack of stamina to meet its challenges.

So today, not a single houseboat is moored along East Liverpool's shores. The word houseboat has come to mean a factory-built aluminum craft on which landlubbers disport themselves on summer weekends, cruising the river with two heavy outboards on the stern, a cold drink in their hands and a multi-striped canopy overhead.

A houseboat, eh? Not by any definition known to the old-timer who hammered his home together with driftwood and then rested while the wake of a passing towboat rocked him to sleep on the wide bosom of the Ohio.

The shore environment wasn't always elegant, but the youngsters enjoyed it.

Outdoor Notes

GRAB YOUR FISHING GEAR and head for Highlandtown Lake next Saturday, joining with others who will be among the first to fish this newly-developed impoundment.

The lake is located off Route 39 between Wellsville and Salineville in Columbiana County. The 170-acre impoundment will "officially" be opened — with certain restrictions — during a brief ceremony at new parking area on the northeast shore.

Co-sponsored by the Division of Wildlife and The Review, a ceremony at 9 a.m. will mark the beginning of fishing in the lake.

There will be food and bait concessions, and The Review is providing prizes for a fishing contest between the hours of 9 a.m. and 1 p.m.

There is plenty of open shoreline to accommodate the public, and two nice boat launching ramps. Boats will be permitted, but gasoline motors will not be allowed. Electric motors up to four horsepower may be used.

ARRANGEMENTS ARE being made for an area for boaters to stake their craft and leave them at the lake. There will be no charge, but the area has not been marked as yet.

Various state and county officials are being invited for the program which should be fairly brief. The day's program is aimed at seeing the public learns about the lake and accommodations.

Two large parking lots, launching ramps and sanitary facilities are located on the north shoreline. Visitors will be invited to tour the entire Wildlife Area. Game protectors and others will be on hand to answer questions and provide assistance if needed.

Registration for prizes will be at the parking lot near the concession stands. Prizes will be offered the first bluegill registered after the opening time, the largest bluegill caught by a boy, the largest caught by a girl, the first catfish caught, the largest caught by a man and the largest caught by a woman. Others may be added.

A general outline map of the lake and a brief history will be available.

If the fish counted in the test nets placed in the lake recently are any indication, the fishing should be fantastic.

HOWEVER, as I stated before, certain restrictions have been placed on the lake. Although it is stocked with catfish, muskies, bass, and bluegills the state has ruled none of the bass or muskies may be kept. These fish must be returned to the lake.

Bass and muskies are predators, and it is hoped that by not allowing fishermen to keep them, the lake will not become overpopulated with stunted bluegills.

The bass also will be given an opportunity to spawn and provide a natural repopulation. The bass should spawn this year.

This restriction will be lifted in September 1969.

Remember, all these fish are to be returned, even if they are injured. Although not a ruling—just my own personal idea—it would be good if fishermen would use barbless hooks. The fish are not injured as severely when this is done. Take pliers and smash down the barb or use a file to cut them away. You can still land most of those you hook although they can escape easier.

IF A HOOK is imbedded deep in the throat of a bass or muskie, cut the line as close as possible to the mouth and drop the fish back into the water. The hook will not last long, disintegrating inside the fish and it will do no harm. Hooks aren't that expensive that the average fisherman can't afford to forget about trying to rip them out. This is a good practice no matter where you fish.

The growth rate of the fish in Highlandtown has been amazing. The catfish are averaging 17 to 18 inches. And the bluegills are a full seven inches. The bluegills are some of the nicest I have ever seen. They are a hybrid and very fat.

The largemouth bass, stocked as fingerlings, run to 11 inches, although there are a few larger.

The really fantastic growth is in the muskies. These were stocked in the lake last summer when they were two to three inches. Now they are turning up in the nets from 20 to 23 inches. This is almost double what was anticipated. The state had not expected much more than 17 or 18 inches on muskies.

IN TWO OR three years, if a good re-stocking program is kept up on the muskies, Highlandtown should really produce some large fish. The state has said it plans to continue putting 170 new muskies in the lake each year.

One sad note the test nets also trapped some crappies.

THIS MUSKIE grew from 3 inches to 22 inches in a year at Highlandtown Lake. The growth of other species of fish in the new impoundment was just as spectacular.

These were not stocked, and apparently have come in through a feeder stream. They only measure four or five inches. Perhaps they will grow larger. Crappies can reproduce at such a fast rate they soon become overpopulated and stunted.

If the bass and muskies can eat enough of them, they might grow into nice size fish.

Buoys have been placed in the lake marking "fishing hot spots." These are located over areas where old vitrified tile were placed on the bottom to provide "homes" for the fish.

Several ducks have taken up residence on the lake and they have hatched young. They are comical to watch, but should not be bothered too much. They might return again and provide some sport shooting.

TWO LARGE herons also are nesting at Highlandtown. Look for them when you visit the area. Beaver also have started building houses at various places.

The lake has not been fully developed but is on its way. If sportsmen use a little good judgment and go along with the rules, they will benefit greatly.

So load up the family, grab the tackle and head for Highlandtown. And remember, a little courtesy to your fellow man goes a long way, even in the outdoors.

WILDLIFE DISPLAY. If the wet spring could have caused Noah to appear again with his Ark, he would have found a small, intense area of preparation at Pike Lake State Park. In the pine woods south of the Park Office is an interesting collection of typical Ohio animals, ready to greet visitors.

Two young red foxes, named Sly and Shy, peer with beady eyes down their long noses and watch Marsupial Mama, a mother opossum, tote her five young ones around in a pouch.

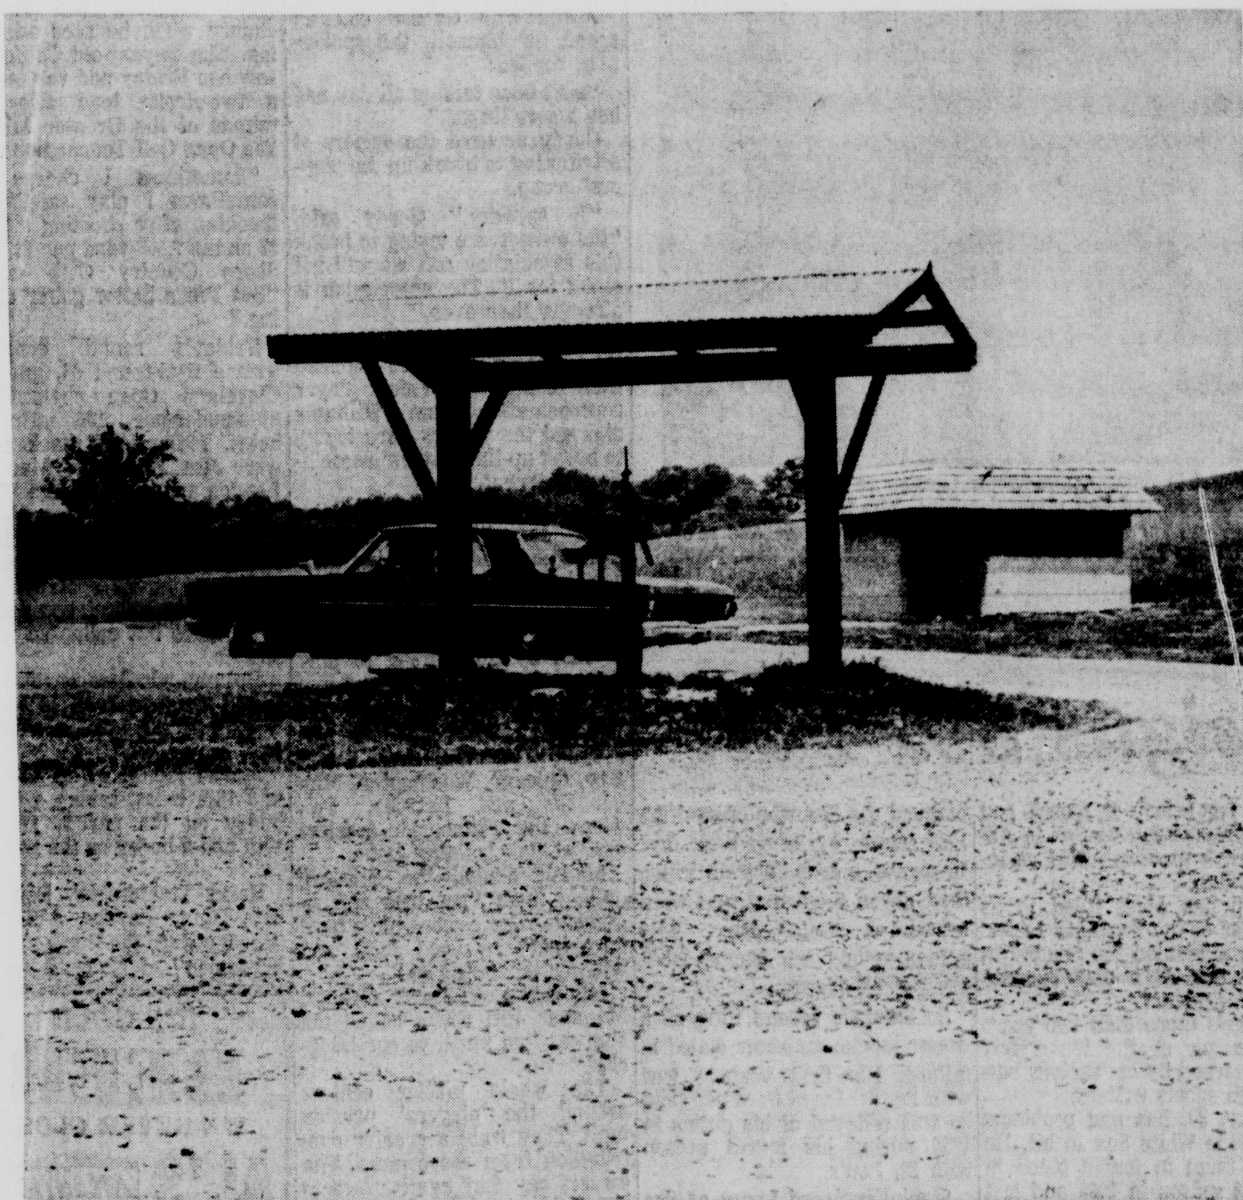

Jones a raccoon wearing a coat of the same material, is in another cage washing his food and keeping an eye on a gray squirrel by the name of Jefferson Davis.

There's a wild turkey answering to the name of Tom, and a pair of white-tailed deer, Frankie and Johnny.

The two foxes were brought in by a farmer from Madison County who wanted them to have a good home.

Dick Mosley, Chief Naturalist for the Division of Parks and Recreation, found the opossum family in a motor lodge in Columbus.

If you have such wildlife you wish to contribute to the cause, phone Dick Mosley at (Area Code 614) 469-3984, or write to him in care of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Division of Parks and Recreation, Ohio Departments Building, 65 South Front Street, Columbus, Ohio 43215.

VARIOUS NEW facilities await visitors at Highlandtown Lake when it is opened to the public next Saturday. Shown is one of two parking lots. The area also has sanitation facilities and a pump for water. Boat launching ramps are located at each parking lot.

You And The Law

Sally was upset by the neighborhood children playing in her yard. It seemed as if a troop of kids would storm across her yard every hour of the day. Regardless of how often she yelled at them, they seemed always to return. During the the school year, her yard was used as a short-cut.

Sally finally decided she'd had enough. She started a law suit against the children and their parents seeking damages for the harm done to her property by the children running across it. She also asked for an injunction to stop the children from coming onto her property.

"Our children weren't doing any harm to her property," said the parents. "Children certainly have a right to play outside."

CAN SALLY prevent the children from playing in her yard?

Yes, said the court in just such a situation in another state. The children repeatedly and willfully had interfered with and trespassed upon Sally's property. They also threatened to continue such trespasses. In light of these facts, the court found the children guilty, but assessed damages at only six cents.

The court also granted an injunction against the children and their parents, preventing them from continuing to trespass upon Sally's property. The court said that, under these facts and circumstances, restraining the children from continuing such trespasses is the only adequate way to protect Sally against invasion of her legal rights. If the children do not stay out of her yard, their parents might find themselves in contempt of court.

A mind reader looking for work around here would be seeking part-time employment.

CRAB YOUR FISHING GEAR and head for Highlandtown Lake next Saturday, joining with others who will be among the first to fish this newly-developed impoundment.

The lake is located off Route 39 between Wellsville and Salineville in Columbiana County.

The 170-acre impoundment will "officially" be opened — with certain restrictions — during a brief ceremony at new parking area on the north-east shore.

Co-sponsored by the Division of Wildlife and The Review, a ceremony at 9 a.m. will mark the beginning of fishing in the lake.

There will be food and bait concessions, and The Review is providing prizes for a fishing contest between the hours of 9 a.m. and 1 p.m.

There is plenty of open shoreline to accommodate the public, and two rice boat launching ramps. Boats will be permitted, but gasoline motors will not be allowed. Electric motors up to four horsepower may be used.

ARRANGEMENTS ARE being made for an area for boaters to stake their craft and leave them at the lake. There will be no charge, but the area has not been marked as yet.

Various state and county officials are being invited for the program which should be fairly brief. The day's program is aimed at seeing the public learns about the lake and accommodations.

Two large parking lots, launching ramps and sanitary facilities are located on the north shoreline. Visitors will be invited to tour the entire Wildlife Area. Game protectors and others will be on hand to answer questions and provide assistance if needed.

Registration for prizes will be at the parking lot near the concession stands. Prizes will be offered the first bluegill registered after the opening time, the largest bluegill caught by a boy, the largest caught by a girl, the first catfish caught, the largest caught by a man and the largest caught by a woman. Others may be added.

A general outline map of the lake and a brief history will be available.

If the fish counted in the test nets placed in the lake recently are any indication, the fishing should be fantastic.

HOWEVER, as I stated before, certain restrictions have been placed on the lake. Although it is stocked with catfish, muskies, bass, and bluegills the state has ruled none of the bass or muskies may be kept. These fish must be returned to the lake.

Bass and muskies are predators, and it is hoped that by not allowing fishermen to keep them, the lake will not become overpopulated with stunted bluegills.

The bass also will be given an opportunity to spawn and provide a natural repopulation. The bass should spawn this year.

This restriction will be lifted in September 1969.

Remember, all these fish are to be returned, even if they are injured. Although not a ruling—just my own personal idea—it would be good if fishermen would use barbless hooks. The fish are not injured as severely when this is done. Take pliers and smash down the barb or use a file to cut them away. You can still land most of those you hook although they can escape easier.

IF A HOOK is imbedded deep in the throat of a bass or muskie, cut the line as close as possible to the mouth and drop the fish back into the water. The hook will not last long, disintegrating inside the fish and it will do no harm. Hooks aren't that expensive that the average fisherman can't afford to forget about trying to rip them out. This is a good practice no matter where you fish.

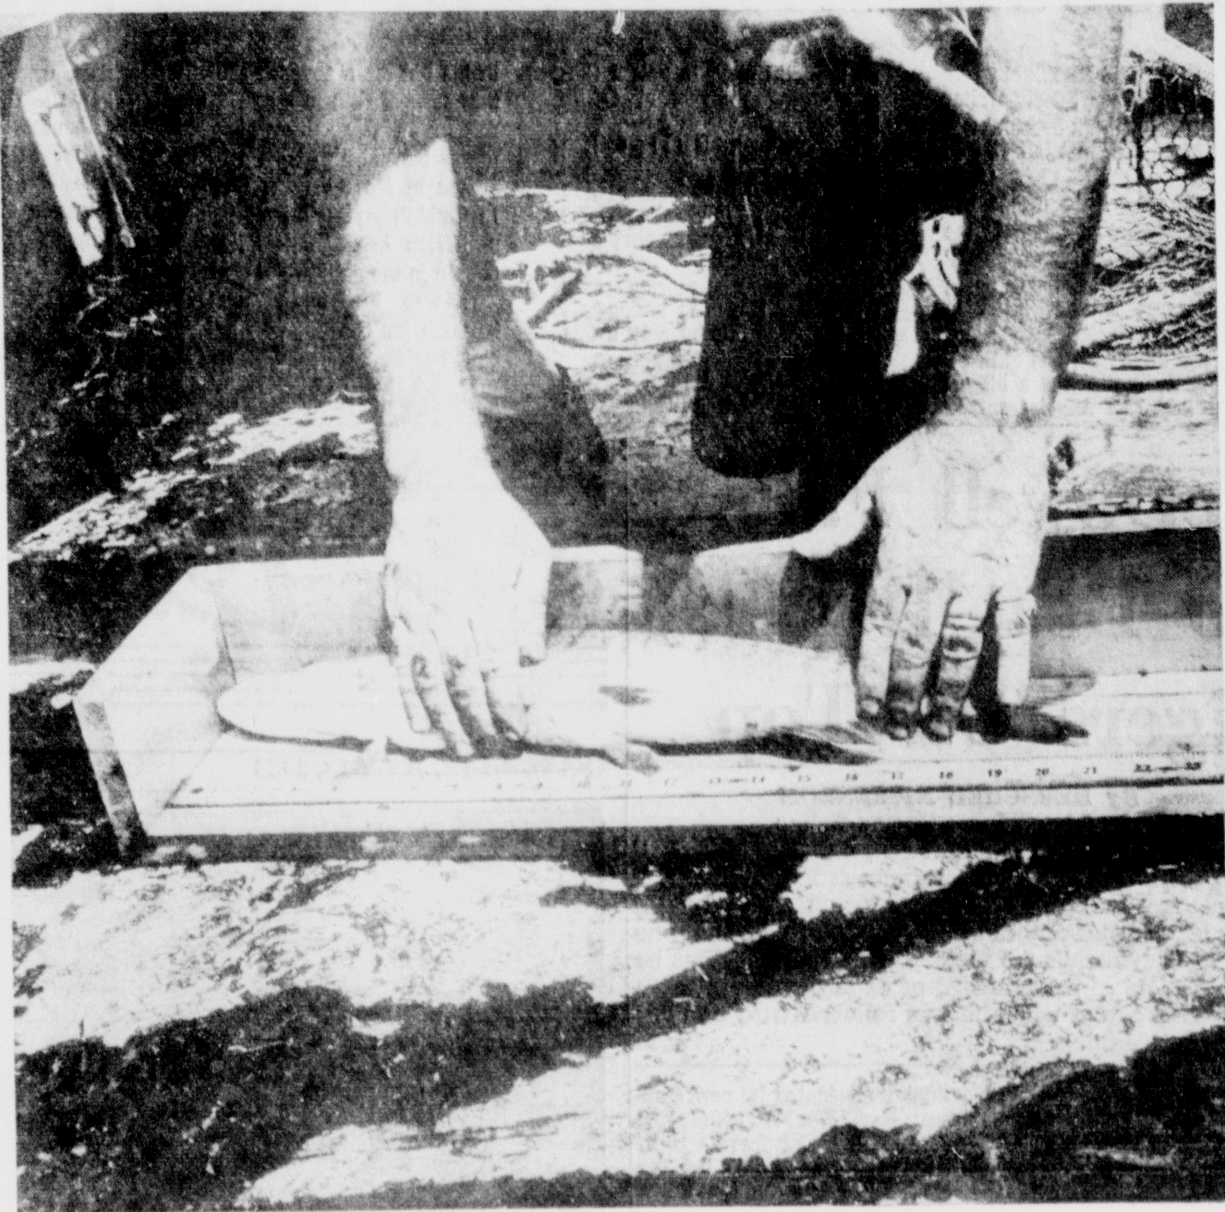

The growth rate of the fish in Highlandtown has been amazing. The catfish are averaging 17 to 18 inches. And the bluegills are a full seven inches. The bluegills are some of the nicest I have ever seen. They are a hybrid and very fat.

The largemouth bass, stocked as fingerlings, run to 11 inches, although there are a few larger.

The really fantastic growth is in the muskies. These were stocked in the lake last summer when they were two to three inches. Now they are turning up in the nets from 20 to 23 inches. This is almost double what was anticipated. The state had not expected much more than 17 or 18 inches on muskies.

IN TWO OR three years, if a good re-stocking program is kept up on the muskies, Highlandtown should really produce some large fish. The state has said it plans to continue putting 170 new muskies in the lake each year.

One sad note the test nets also trapped some crappies.

THIS MUSKIE grew from 3 inches to 22 inches in a year at Highlandtown Lake. The growth of other species of fish in the new impoundment was just as spectacular.

These were not stocked, and apparently have come in through a feeder stream. They only measure four or five inches. Perhaps they will grow larger. Crappies can reproduce at such a fast rate they soon become overpopulated and stunted.

If the bass and muskies can eat enough of them, they might grow into nice size fish.

Buoys have been placed in the lake marking "fishing hot spots." These are located over areas where old vitrified tile were placed on the bottom to provide "homes" for the fish.

Several ducks have taken up residence on the lake and they have hatched young. They are comical to watch, but should not be bothered too much. They might return again and provide some sport shooting.

TWO LARGE herons also are nesting at Highlandtown. Look for them when you visit the area. Beaver also have started building houses at various places.

The lake has not been fully developed but is on its way. If sportsmen use a little good judgment and go along with the rules, they will benefit greatly.

So load up the family, grab the tackle and head for Highlandtown. And remember, a little courtesy to your fellow man goes a long way, even in the outdoors.

WILDLIFE DISPLAY. If the wet spring could have caused Noah to appear again with his Ark, he would have found a small, intense area of preparation at Pike Lake State Park. In the pine woods south of the Park Office is an interesting collection of typical Ohio animals, ready to greet visitors.

Two young red foxes, named Sly and Shy, peer with beady eyes down their long noses and watch Marsupial Mama, a mother opossum, tote her five young ones around in a pouch.

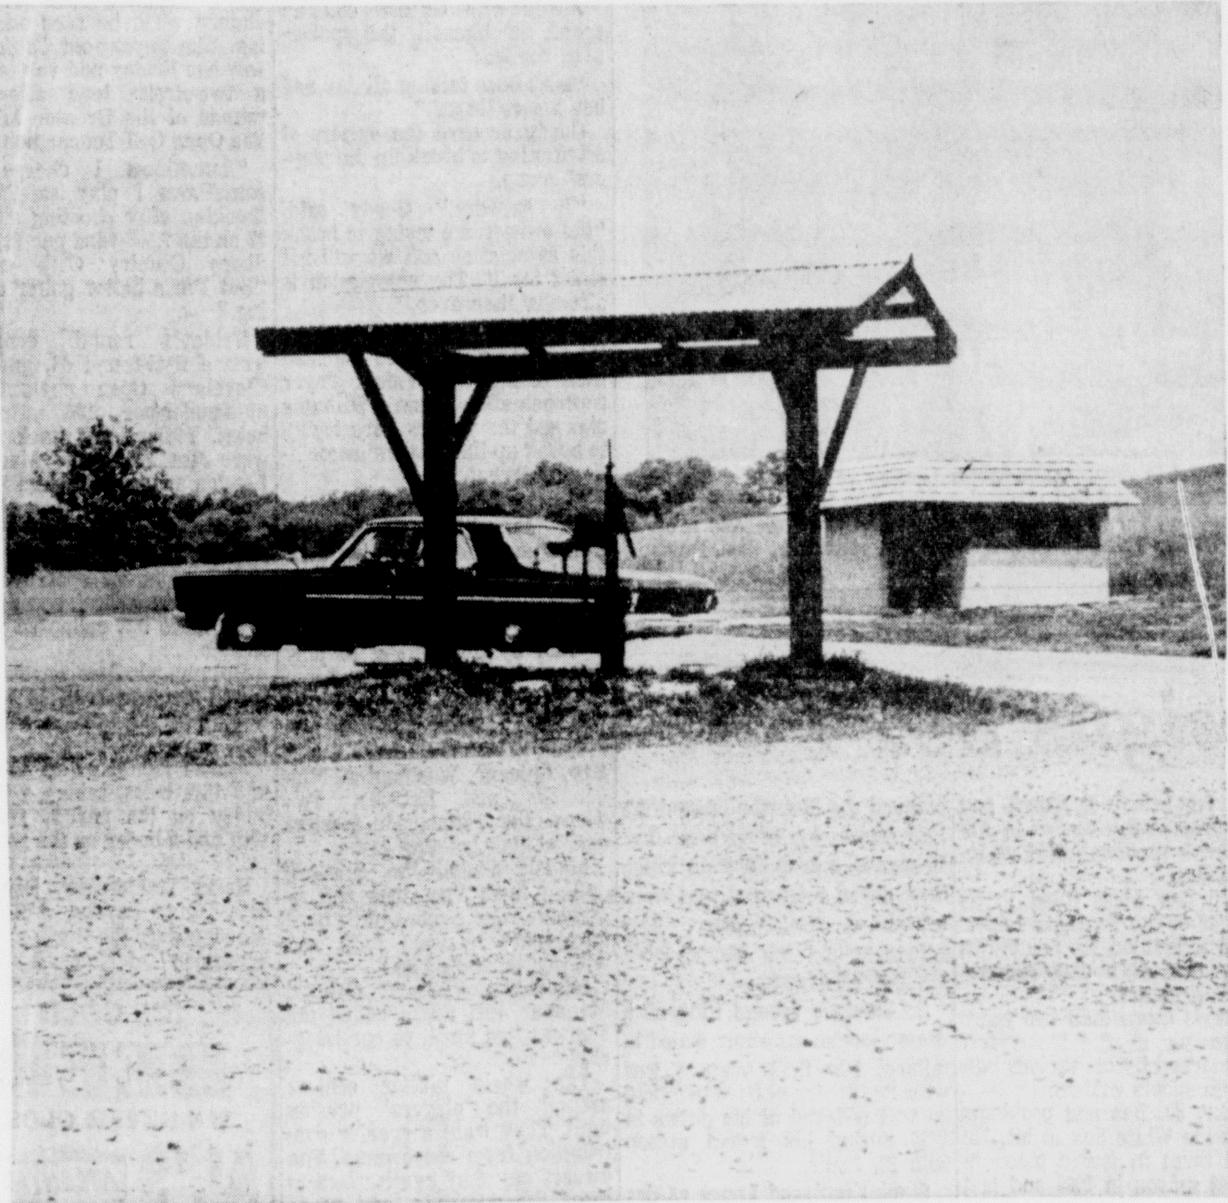

Jones a raccoon wearing a coat of the same material, is in another cage washing his food and keeping an eye on a gray squirrel by the name of Jefferson Davis.

There's a wild turkey answering to the name of Tom, and a pair of white-tailed deer, Frankie and Johnny.

The two foxes were brought in by a farmer from Madison County who wanted them to have a good home.

Dick Mosley, Chief Naturalist for the Division of Parks and Recreation, found the opossum family in a motor lodge in Columbus.

If you have such wildlife you wish to contribute to the cause, phone Dick Mosley at (Area Code 614) 469-3984, or write to him in care of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Division of Parks and Recreation, Ohio Department Building, 65 South Front Street, Columbus, Ohio 43215.

VARIOUS NEW facilities await visitors at Highlandtown Lake when it is opened to the public next Saturday. Shown is one of two parking lots. The area also has sanitation facilities and a pump for water. Boat launching ramps are located at each parking lot.

You And The Law

Sally was upset by the neighborhood children playing in her yard. It seemed as if a troop of kids would storm across her yard every hour of the day. Regardless of how often she yelled at them, they seemed always to return. During the the school year, her yard was used as a short-cut.

Sally finally decided she'd had enough. She started a law suit against the children and their parents seeking damages for the harm done to her property by the children running across it. She also asked for an injunction to stop the children from coming onto her property.

"Our children weren't doing any harm to her property," said the parents. "Children certainly have a right to play outside."

CAN SALLY prevent the children from playing in her yard?

Yes, said the court in just such a situation in another state. The children repeatedly and willfully had interfered with and trespassed upon Sally's property. They also threatened to continue such trespasses. In light of these facts, the court found the children guilty, but assessed damages at only six cents.

The court also granted an injunction against the children and their parents, preventing them from continuing to trespass upon Sally's property. The court said that, under these facts and circumstances, restraining the children from continuing such trespasses is the only adequate way to protect Sally against invasion of her legal rights. If the children do not stay out of her yard, their parents might find themselves in contempt of court.

Gibson Misses Another Shutout But Stops Astros, 3-1

By MIKE BRYSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

If you don't think baseball is a game of inches, just talk to Bob Gibson.

A few silly little inches are the only things standing in the way of the St. Louis Cardinals' blazing fastballer from being the greatest shutout artist in history.

Eleven days ago, one of Bob's hopping fastballs was a bit off target and Los Angeles scored on the wild pitch to halt a Gibson scoreless string at 47 innings.

Unperturbed, Bullet Bob started another streak and had built it to 23 innings Friday night when Houston's Denis Menke lined a run-scoring double in the seventh.

Menke's shot—scoring only the second run in 71 innings off Gibson—was fair by only a few inches.

McDowell Fails To Beat Record; Tigers On Top

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Records are made to be broken, but Sam McDowell had to settle for a tie and a raincheck Friday night.

The fast-balling left-hander equaled a modern major league mark by fanning the first five batters he faced in Cleveland's 6-3 victory over Oakland. But he was one short of the standard of 41 strikeouts in three consecutive games when he was relieved with two out in the ninth inning.

Elsewhere, American League-leading Detroit beat Minnesota 5-1, Baltimore made it 11 straight over Washington 3-2, Boston hung on to beat California 3-2 and the New York Yankees edged the Chicago White Sox and interim manager Les Moss 2-1.

It was the second time in his career McDowell had fanned the first five batters in a game and he is one of seven pitchers—four in the American League and three in the National—to perform the feat, but the only one to do it twice.

Welch Hold Record
The all-time mark is nine game-opening strikeouts by Michael Welch of the New York National League club in 1884.

McDowell was relieved by Vicente Romo after he fanned Jackson to open the ninth, walked Rudi, got Rick Monday on a popout and went to a 2-0 count on Dave Duncan.

The record of 41 strikeouts in three games was set by Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1959 and equaled only last week by McDowell's teammate, Luis Tiant. McDowell fanned 14 in his last outing for a two-game total of 29 and will have a shot at the mark his next time out.

The Indians scored twice off Jim "Catfish" Hunter in the second inning on singles by Duke Sims, Larry Brown, Vern Fuller and McDowell. Solo home runs in the seventh by Russ Snyder and Jimmie Hall insured the triumph.

Homers Hurt John
Moss, normally a White Sox coach, was making moves with all the clan of Eddie Stanky, who stepped down as manager Friday. But there was nothing Moss could do about successive seventh-inning homers by New York's Tom Tresh and Frank Rodriguez, that saddled lefty Tommy John with his first loss after seven victories.

Moss will be in the driver's seat again today. Al Lopez, the man Stanky succeeded more than two years ago, takes over the ninth-place club Sunday.

Detroit's Denny McLain, the majors' top winner, coasted to his 17th victory as the Tigers beat the Twins and maintained their 9½-game lead. McLain, who has won eight straight and lost only twice, gave up an unearned run in the seventh. Don Wert backed him with a two-run homer.

Baltimore edged Washington by combining the daring base-

Al Lopez Takes Over

Stanky Resigns Sox Post

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Eddie Stanky resigned as manager of the Chicago White Sox Friday and was replaced by Al Lopez, the man whom Stanky succeeded more than two years ago.

The White Sox did not hold a press conference. A club spokesman called various news media and announced that Stanky had resigned. Stanky went along with organizational lines and said he had resigned but was surprised by the announcement.

While Stanky might have been surprised by the announcement of his resignation, probing efforts revealed that the move to replace Stanky had been in the works for nearly a month and consummated by the Sox in All-Star break meetings held at Indianapolis.

Coach Les Moss filled in as manager of the Sox until Lopez's arrival scheduled for Sunday in the opening of a doubleheader with Washington.

Stanky's more than two years as manager of the White Sox were marked by his various battles with sports writers.

Stanky, 50, has had problems getting his White Sox to hit. He guided them to fourth place in his first season in 1966 and last year the Sox were on top of the league most of the season until their last week collapse.

The hangover apparently plagued the Sox who opened the 1968 season by losing their first 10 games, a drop off from which they never recovered and were mired in ninth place, 18½ games behind the league leading Detroit Tigers.

So Stanky's second fling as a major league manager ended in failure. His first venture was with the St. Louis Cardinals and he was relieved of his duties in 1955 during his fourth season with St. Louis.

Stanky replaced Lopez as Sox manager at the start of the 1966 season and as a result he had only two fourth-place finishes to show for his efforts.

Pusateri's Wins 2nd Half Title In Minor Loop

Pusateri captured the second half title in the Minor League's American Division by defeating rival Rogers Drive-In, 7-4 Friday.

In other games, First National Bank which had clinched the National Division title on Thursday played its final game scoring a 7-4 win over Tri-State Appliances for an overall 16-2 record. Potters Bank and Trust posted a 17-5 victory over M & A Motors.

Joe O'Hanlon, the winning pitcher for Pusateri's helped his own cause with a home run and two singles while D. Bickel and J. Davis had two hits each. C. Dray was the losing pitcher and J. Gill collected two of his team's five hits.

Mike Yanni pitched First National to victory giving up four hits. Dean Badgley stroked two doubles and Andy Calhoun socked a two base hit for the champions. Tim Barton was the losing pitcher. Reed doubled for Tri-State.

Terry Echols was the winning hurler for Potters Bank & Trust. Bob Hagerty, Mike Cross, Bob Wetzel and Gregg Thompson had a single and double each. Jim Olmstead and Gary Marker collected doubles for M & A.

Players, Owners To Meet Sunday On Pension Plan

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The feuding players and owners of the National Football League today are preparing to meet again in an attempt to solve the pension problems that have plagued their practice camps and threatened their season.

"NFL owners have acknowledged the request of the Players Association for a meeting which has tentatively been set for Sunday afternoon in New York, NFL President Art Modell announced in Cleveland Friday night.

He added that the meeting would be held on the condition that all concerned parties could be notified in time.

In Los Angeles, a spokesman for the players' group said John Gordy of Detroit, president of the NFL Players Association, had contacted all members of their negotiating committee and their attorney and all were ready to make the trip.

Asked why Gordy couldn't speak for himself, the spokesman replied:

"He's been talking all day and has a sore throat."

Gordy accused the owners of attempting to break up the players' group.

"It appears," Gordy said, "the owners are trying to break this association and we will not stand for it. The association is stronger than ever."

In Johnson City, Tenn., where the Atlanta Falcons opened their rookie camp today, player representative Sam Williams charged the owners "are trying to break up the players' association by threat."

"First, by making a statement cancelling all training camps and then reversing their decision and opening them to rookies only and running off all veterans who show up."

"And by threatening to play the season with rookies and free agents only."

Similar comments from all around the country, from Green Bay, Chicago, Washington, Minneapolis and Latrobe, Pa., where the Pittsburgh Steelers opened their training camp.

Modell denied the charges, calling them "not true and ridiculous. The owners have been bargaining in good faith and will continue to do so."

Minnesota Vikings' General Manager Jim Finks called the charges "an insult to our integrity."

The whole matter centers around the players' pension fund. They want a greater contribution from the owners. The owners say they can't afford to meet the demands, and made counter proposals the players say are not acceptable.

Stockton Two In Front At Milwaukee

By BILL HALLS
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Dave Stockton will take a chance when he sees an opening. The 26-year-old Californian saw one Friday and vaulted into a two-stroke lead after two rounds of the Greater Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament.

"Sometimes I charge and sometimes I play safe," said Stockton after shooting a torrid 67 on the 7,155-yard par-72 North Shore Country Club course. "But I'm a better golfer charging."

Friday's round, combined with a first-round 68, gave the Cleveland Open champion a nine-under-par 135 after 36 holes. Two strokes back at 137 were Jim Weichers, Mac McLendon and veteran Sam Snead, who shot a course record of 65.

Stockton's hot putter turned in five birdies, including a pair of 20-footers as he shot by Dave Marad, who was nine under after 29 holes but collapsed in the stretch.

Balmly, windless weather produced another rash of subpar rounds as 51 golfers smashed par.

Marad fell apart on the 17th and 18th holes, taking a double bogey on the par 3, 170-yard 17th and a bogey on the 18th.

Harry Stuhldreher, Don Miller, Elmer Layden and Jim Crowley were the famous "Four Horsemen" of Notre Dame.

Menke's shot—scoring only the second run in 71 innings off Gibson—was fair by only a few inches.

Allows 3 Hits
Although he was unsuccessful in his bid for a seventh shutout this season, Gibson stopped the Astros on three hits and his mates backed him with a 15-hit attack in the 8-1 rout. Gibson, 12-5, didn't permit a baserunner until Bob Aspromonte's leadoff double in the sixth.

It was the ninth straight triumph for Gibson, who hasn't been beaten since May 28, and it was the ninth victory in 10 games for the rampaging Cardinals, who maintained their 9½ game lead.

In other National League activity, Atlanta ripped Los Angeles 7-0, San Francisco trounced Cincinnati 11-4, Philadelphia turned back Pittsburgh 3-2 and New York blanked Chicago.

The Dodgers' Don Drysdale, who holds the record of six straight shutouts and 57 scoreless innings that Gibson had been seeking, was battered by Atlanta for three runs in the sixth, then chased with four more in the next inning.

Rookie Jim Britton, 4-2, who got into the starting rotation when Milt Pappas came down with the flu, checked the Dodgers on five hits.

Willie Mays Homers
Jim Hart accounted for five of San Francisco's runs with a pair of homers after Cincinnati had taken an early 2-0 lead. Willie Mays also contributed a two-run homer, the 557th of his career, and Willie McCovey had a solo blast.

Rookie Jeff James and John Bozzer teamed on a six-hitter that handed the Pirates their seventh straight loss.

James held Pittsburgh to three singles before Gene Alley walked and Roberto Clemente doubled in the ninth. Bozzer got Matty Alou on a foul pop, but Donn Clendenon singled in two runs before pinch hitter Gary Kolb filed out to end the game.

Cookie Rojas doubled in a run in the first and Roberto Pena singled in two more in the third to give Philadelphia all it needed to defeat former teammate Jim Bunning, 4-11, for the first time.

Jerry Grote, who has a .477 average against Chicago Cub pitchers this season, hit a two-run homer and singled in another run to lead the New York Mets' victory.

Jerry Koosman, 12-4, was the winner with a six-hitter.

Records are made to be broken, but Sam McDowell had to settle for a tie and a raincheck Friday night.

The fast-balling left-hander equaled a modern major league mark by fanning the first five batters he faced in Cleveland's 6-3 victory over Oakland. But he was one short of the standard of 41 strikeouts in three consecutive games when he was relieved with two out in the ninth inning.

Elsewhere, American League-leading Detroit beat Minnesota 5-1, Baltimore made it 11 straight over Washington 3-2, Boston hung on to beat California 3-2 and the New York Yankees edged the Chicago White Sox and interim manager Les Moss 2-1.

It was the second time in his career McDowell had fanned the first five batters in a game and he is one of seven pitchers—four in the American League and three in the National—to perform the feat, but the only one to do it twice.

Welch Hold Record
The all-time mark is nine game-opening strikeouts by Michael Welch of the New York National League club in 1884.

McDowell was relieved by Vicente Romo after he fanned Jackson to open the ninth, walked Rudi, got Rick Monday on a pop and went to a 2-0 count on Dave Duncan.

The record of 41 strikeouts in three games was set by Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1959 and equaled only last week by McDowell's teammate, Luis Tiant. McDowell fanned 14 in his last outing for a two-game total of 29 and will have a shot at the mark his next time out.

The Indians scored twice off Jim "Catfish" Hunter in the second inning on singles by Duke Sims, Larry Brown, Vern Fuller and McDowell. Solo home runs in the seventh by Russ Snyder and Jimmie Hall insured the triumph.

Homers Hurt John
Moss, normally a White Sox coach, was making moves with all the clan of Eddie Stanky, who stepped down as manager Friday. But there was nothing Moss could do about successive seventh-inning homers by New York's Tom Tresh and Frank Fernandez that saddled lefty Tommy John with his first loss after seven victories.

Moss will be in the driver's seat again today. Al Lopez, the man Stanky succeeded more than two years ago, takes over the ninth-place club Sunday.

Detroit's Denny McLain, the majors' top winner, coasted to his 17th victory as the Tigers beat the Twins and maintained their 9½-game lead. McLain, who has won eight straight and lost only twice, gave up an unearned run in the seventh. Don Wert backed him with a two-run homer.

Baltimore edged Washington by combining the daring base-

Players, Owners To Meet Sunday On Pension Plan

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The feuding players and owners of the National Football League today are preparing to meet again in an attempt to solve the pension problems that have plagued their practice camps and threatened their season.

"NFL owners have acknowledged the request of the Players Association for a meeting which has tentatively been set for Sunday afternoon in New York, NFL President Art Modell announced in Cleveland Friday night.

He added that the meeting would be held on the condition that all concerned parties could be notified in time.

Stockton Two In Front At Milwaukee

By BILL HALIS
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Dave Stockton will take a chance when he sees an opening. The 26-year-old Californian saw one Friday and vaulted into a two-stroke lead after two rounds of the Greater Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament.

"Sometimes I charge and sometimes I play safe," said Stockton after shooting a torrid 67 on the 7,155-yard par-72 North Shore Country Club course. "But I'm a better golfer charging."

Friday's round, combined with a first-round 68, gave the Cleveland Open champion a nine-under-par 135 after 36 holes. Two strokes back at 137 were Jim Weichers, Mac McLendon and veteran Sam Snead, who shot a course record of 65.

Stockton's hot putter turned in five birdies, including a pair of 20-footers as he shot by Dave Marad, who was nine under after 29 holes but collapsed in the stretch.

Balmly, windless weather produced another rash of subpar rounds as 51 golfers smashed par.

Marad fell apart on the 17th and 18th holes, taking a double bogey on the par 3, 170-yard 17th and a bogey on the 18th.

Harry Stuhldreher, Don Miller, Elmer Layden and Jim Crowley were the famous "Four Horsemen" of Notre Dame.

Al Lopez Takes Over

Stanky Resigns Sox Post

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Eddie Stanky resigned as manager of the Chicago White Sox Friday and was replaced by Al Lopez, the man whom Stanky succeeded more than two years ago.

The White Sox did not hold a press conference. A club spokesman called various news media and announced that Stanky had resigned. Stanky went along with organizational lines and said he had resigned but was surprised by the announcement.

While Stanky might have been surprised by the announcement of his resignation, probing efforts revealed that the move to replace Stanky had been in the works for nearly a month and consummated by the Sox in All-Star break meetings held at Indianapolis.

Coach Les Moss filled in as manager of the Sox until Lopez's arrival scheduled for Sunday in the opening of a doubleheader with Washington.

Stanky's more than two years as manager of the White Sox were marked by his various battles with sports writers.

Stanky, 50, has had problems getting his White Sox to bat. He guided them to fourth place in his first season in 1966 and last year the Sox were on top of the league most of the season until their last week collapse.

The hangover apparently plagued the Sox who opened the 1968 season by losing their first 10 games, a drop off from which they never recovered and were mired in ninth place, 18½ games behind the league leading Detroit Tigers.

So Stanky's second fling as a major league manager ended in failure. His first venture was with the St. Louis Cardinals and he was relieved of his duties in 1955 during his fourth season with St. Louis.

Stanky replaced Lopez as Sox manager at the start of the 1966 season and as a result he had only two fourth-place finishes to show for his efforts.

The 60-year-old Lopez, who has a reputation of second-place finishes, will take over for the rest of this season and the entire 1969 campaign, according to team owner Arthur Ally.

Pusateri's Wins 2nd Half Title In Minor Loop

Pusateri's captured the second half title in the Minor League's American Division by defeating rival Rogers Drive-In, 7-4 Friday.

In other games, First National Bank which had clinched the National Division title on Thursday played its final game scoring a 7-4 win over Tri-State Appliance for an overall 16-2 record. Potters Bank and Trust posted a 17-5 victory over M & A Motors.

Joe O'Hanlon, the winning pitcher for Pusateri's helped his own cause with a home run and two singles while D. Bickel and J. Davis had two hits each. C. Dray was the losing pitcher and J. Gill collected two of his team's five hits.

Mike Yanni pitched First National to victory giving up four hits. Dean Badgley stroked two doubles and Andy Calhoun socked a two base hit for the champions. Tim Barton was the losing pitcher. Reed doubled for Tri-State.

Terry Echols was the winning hurler for Potters Bank & Trust. Bob Hagerty, Mike Cross, Bob Wetzel and Gregg Thompson had a single and double each. Jim Olmstead and Gary Markler collected doubles for M & A.

Post 374 Downs Salem Nine, 10-3

Post 374 scored a 10-3 victory over Salem Friday at Colt Field in the final County League game.

The East Liverpool nine took advantage of five Salem errors, four walks and added six hits to post 10 runs. After Salem scored two runs in the top of the first Post 374 bounced back with three runs in the first inning then added six more in the second frame when 10 batters went to the plate.

Dan Myers was the starting pitcher followed by Dan Cunningham and Jim Muscarella. The three hurlers gave up five hits.

Leading Post 374's attack was Rex Campbell who was two for three and scored three runs. Clint otti had two hits for the losers.

Post 374 plays Weirton in an Ohio Valley League game Sunday at 3:30 p.m. at Colt Field.

Final Runs Set Today For Road Racing Tests

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — Final qualifying and practice runs for today's 200-mile U.S. Road Racing Championship and Sunday's Six Hours of Endurance for the World Championship of Car Manufacturers were scheduled today at the Watkins Glen Race Track.

Mark Donohue of Media, Pa., set the pace for the group 7 sports cars Friday, touring the 2.3-mile track in Roger Penske's Sunoco Special McLaren Chevrolet 427 at an average speed of 123.6 miles an hour.

Donohue and 24 others were to get the green flag today in the seventh USRRC of the nine scheduled for North America this year.

Sunday's event pits the No. 3, 1968 Porsche against the GT40 Fords in the eighth of the 10-race endurance series that also includes Daytona, Sebring, Brands Hatch, England; Monza, Italy; Tara Florio, Sicily, and Burburging, Germany.

The Porsches have won four of the seven races for Manufacturers points points held so far. The Fords won the other three. A Porsche triumph Sunday would give the German Marque the '68 crown.

Colts Tim Brown To Begin Show Business Career

BALTIMORE (AP) — Timmy Brown, literally changing costumes and scenes, has quit the National Football League to begin a show business career in Los Angeles.

The breakaway halfback broke away from the Baltimore Colts Friday with the announcement of his retirement.

Brown, 31, had been hampered by injuries the past two seasons with the Philadelphia Eagles. But Baltimore, gambling he was still an offensive threat, dealt safetyman Alvin Hammond to the Eagles for Brown after the 1967 season.

A healthy Brown was a potent weapon. He gained more than 12,000 yards in eight seasons, including 2,425 in 1963 on rushing, pass receptions and kick returns.

Player Goes Into Lead In British Open

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — South Africa's Gary Player, shooting steady par golf, moved ahead of Bill Casper and into a one-stroke lead after 60 holes today in the final round of the British Open Golf championship.

Casper, bogeying two consecutive holes, fell back into a tie with Bob Charles of New Zealand, with Jack Nicklaus, the favorite, was only three shots off the pace.

Gay Brewer, former Masters champion, moved into contention with an outgoing 37 over the 7,252-yard, par 72 course. He was one shot back of Nicklaus.

Oakland Team Edges Calvary In Slo Pitch

Oakland Free Methodist defeated Calvary Methodist, 13-11, in a Church Slo - Pitch League game Friday.

Joe Comfort and Jack Heald collected four hits each for the winners. Mike Talkington was the winning pitcher.

Cornell Gains Finals In Henley Row Races

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (AP)—Cornell University gained the final of the Thames Cup at The Henley Royal Regatta today, defeating a crew of Irish cops from Dublin in a tough race.

Defending champion Cornell trailed the Garda Siochana Boat Club for most of the race but the Big Red then came through with a great display of power rowing to overhaul the heavier Irishmen in the last 100 yards.

Cornell won by half a length in eight minutes, 14 seconds.

Lewis Celebrates Birthday By Winning Ohio Amateur

By HAL PARIS COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The city of Warren can still lay claim to being the golf capital of Ohio.

Brash Bob Lewis Jr., celebrating his 24th birthday in high style, made sure of that Friday when he captured the Ohio Amateur golf championship by four strokes.

"I couldn't think of a better birthday present," Lewis said afterwards. "This is the greatest day of my life."

Lewis succeeds Lulu Sabotin, of the Ohio Amateur throne. Sabotin, also of Warren, finished with an even 300, 15 strokes back of Lewis and well down the list.

And Public Links king Leo Zampardo, who also lives in Warren, closed out at 296 for a tie for ninth place.

It was the first major victory for Lewis, the Rollins (Fla.) College graduate student, who was playing in his sixth amateur.

He rang up four birdies and four bogeys on his way to an even par 72 and a 285 total, three under par for the distance.

The 5-foot-8, 158 pound golfer, who started playing at age eight, charged into Friday's final round with a three stroke advantage over Jim Hilderbrand of Ashland and a four stroke bulge over Fritz Schmidt of Columbus.

Lewis, who went to prep school in Rhode Island where he was an all-stater in football and baseball, saw his lead cut to only one shot when he three-putted the second and third holes for bogeys.

"I was playing a bit too conservative and I thought it was about time I got going," Lewis said. "That's when I decided to attack the course."

The key hole was the fifth. Lewis sank a 15 - footer for a birdie while Hilderbrand, who had bogeyed No. 4, suffered a double bogey on No. 5 when he put his second shot in the trap and then blasted out over the green.

House OK's 2 Drug Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a two-edged attack on drug addiction the House has passed bills that would provide more facilities for treatment and stiffen penalties for illegal trafficking in narcotics.

The two bills were sent to the Senate Friday by overwhelming votes.

Possession for personal use without a prescription of LSD and other hallucinogens, plus depressant and stimulant drugs for the first time would be a misdemeanor under one bill.

But the same measure also takes into consideration the plight of the youthful, first time offender.

Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., told the House that testimony has showed three to five per cent of the nation's high school and college age students have experimented with the mind-bending drug LSD.

Penalties under the bill range from a $1,000 fine and one-year prison term or both for first offenders to three years and $10,000 for subsequent violations.

Courts, however, would be free under a section of the bill to suspend sentences of those convicted for the first time.

The bill also makes it a felony and provides penalties of five years in prison and $10,000 fine for illegal manufacture, sale or distribution to others.

A first offense is now a misdemeanor with subsequent offenses carrying penalties of three years in prison and $10,000 fine.

Penalties under this section would be doubled for sales to those under 21.

The bill was passed by a 319-2 vote.

The other measure, cleared by 325-1, would provide $211 million over two years for various health programs, including alcoholism and drug addiction.

Included within the bill is a congressional finding that chronic alcoholism can better be treated as "a major health and social problem" rather than within the system of criminal justice.

Carnival Brings $32 In Fight Against MD

A total of $32.55 was netted in a Muscular Dystrophy backyard carnival held Monday and Tuesday in the parking lot of American Legion Post 121 of Chester.

Miss Dana Caste, Charles Casto and Steve Algizno were in charge. Other members of the Mill Addition of Chester also participated.

Prizes and refreshments were donated by Chester businessmen, Mrs. Charles Casto said.

Two Feature Races Slated At Waterford

A pair of feature races highlights the Saturday night racing program at Waterford Park. Both events carry $2,500 purses.

The main attraction is a six furlong dash for three year old sprinters, and will be presented as the ninth race.

Heading the field of nine allowance class horses is Five Moons, a consistent sort who has been doing well all season. Bill Sollars will ride the probable 2-1 favorite.

Others named are Georgie Boy, Kathy Gray, Audreys Boy, Daybreak Miss, Hesitant, Tongues Of Fire and the entry of Nobody But Nobody and Wild Irish.

Daybreak Miss, a winner over similar company last time out, figures to be the one to beat.

The supporting event on the program matches the consistent Brandys Play against a top notch field.

Brandys Play, who is back at the peak of his form again, won going a mile here recently, much to the surprise of the handicappers.

He may be joined in the race by the fleet race mare Edgewood, if she is scratched out from the late feature last night.

Also nominated are Eli's Nikki, Bonnie Blaze, Pinitu, Roman Band, and the couplings of Scioto and Helenic Ace.

The Saturday program lists 10 races, with first post at 7:15.

Whips Drop 1st Soccer Contest

By The Associated Press Washington got a first Friday night—but it wasn't the one the Whips of the North American Soccer League were looking for.

The Whips lost their initial game after seven undefeated starts at D.C. Stadium, 3-1 to Baltimore and missed an opportunity to move into first place in the Atlantic Division

Post 374 Downs Salem Nine, 10-3

Post 374 scored a 10-3 victory over Salem Friday at Colt Field in the final County League game.

The East Liverpool nine took advantage of five Salem errors, four walks and added six hits to post 10 runs. After Salem scored two runs in the top of the first Post 374 bounced back with three runs in the first inning then added six more in the second frame when 10 batters went to the plate.

Dan Myers was the starting pitcher followed by Dan Cunningham and Jim Musura. The three hurlers gave up five hits.

Leading Post 374's attack was Rex Campbell who was two for three and scored three runs. Ci-

Final Runs Set Today For Road Racing Tests

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — Final qualifying and practice runs for today's 200-mile U.S. Road Racing Championship and Sunday's Six Hours of Endurance for the World Championship of Car Manufacturers were scheduled today at the Watkins Glen Race Track.

Mark Donohue of Media, Pa., set the pace for the group 7 sports cars Friday, touring the 2.3-mile track in Roger Penske's Sunoco Special McLaren Chevrolet 427 at an average speed of 123.6 miles an hour.

Donohue and 24 others were to get the green flag today in the seventh USRR of the nine scheduled for North America this year.

Sunday's event plus the No. 3, 1968 Porsche against the GT40 Ford in the eighth of the 10-race endurance series that also includes Daytona, Sebring, Brands Hatch, England; Monza, Italy; Tara Florio, Sicily, and Bamburg, Germany.

The Porsches have won four of the seven races for Manufacturers points points held so far. The Ford won the other three. A Porsche triumph Sunday would give the German Marque the 68 crown.

Colts Tim Brown To Begin Show Business Career

BALTIMORE (AP) — Timmy Brown, literally changing costumes and scenes, has quit the National Football League to begin a show business career in Los Angeles.

The breakaway halfback broke away from the Baltimore Colts Friday with the announcement of his retirement.

Brown, 31, had been hampered by injuries the past two seasons with the Philadelphia Eagles. But Baltimore gambling he was still an offensive threat, dealt safetyman Alvin Haymond to the Eagles for Brown after the 1967 season.

A healthy Brown was a potent weapon. He gained more than 12,000 yards in eight seasons, including 2,425 in 1963 on rushing, pass receptions and kick returns.

Player Goes Into Lead In British Open

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — South Africa's Gary Player, shooting steady par golf, moved ahead of Bill Casper and into a one-stroke lead after 60 holes today in the final round of the British Open Golf championship.

Casper, bogeying two consecutive holes, fell back into a tie with Bob Charles of New Zealand, with Jack Nicklaus, the favorite, was only three shots off the pace.

Gay Brewer, former Masters champion, moved into contention with an outgoing 37 over the 7,252-yard, par 72 course. He was one shot back of Nicklaus.

Oakland Team Edges Calvary In Slo Pitch

Oakland Free Methodist defeated Calvary Methodist, 13-11, in a Church Slo - Pitch League game Friday.

Joe Comfort and Jack Heald collected four hits each for the winners. Mike Talkington was the winning pitcher.

Heldman, McCuen and Logston had four hits each for the losers.

Cornell Gains Finals In Henley Row Races

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (AP)—Cornell University gained the final of the Thames Cup at The Henley Royal Regatta today, defeating a crew of Irish cops from Dublin in a tough race.

Defending champion Cornell trailed the Garda Schochana Boat Club for most of the race but the Big Red then came through with a great display of power rowing to overhault the heavier Irishmen in the last 100 yards.

Cornell won by half a length in eight minutes, 14 seconds.

Third Person Dies From Racing Crash

Lewis Celebrates Birthday By Winning Ohio Amateur

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The city of Warren can still lay claim to being the golf capital of Ohio.

Brash Bob Lewis Jr., celebrating his 24th birthday in high style, made sure of that Friday when he captured the Ohio Amateur golf championship by four strokes.

"I couldn't think of a better birthday present," Lewis said afterwards. "This is the greatest day of my life."

Lewis succeeds Lulu Sabotin or the Ohio Amateur throne. Sabotin, also of Warren, finished with an even 300, 15 strokes back of Lewis and well down the list.

And Public Links king Leo Zamperdo, who also lives in Warren, closed out at 296 for a tie for ninth place.

It was the first major victory for Lewis, the Rollins (Fla.) College graduate student, who was playing in his sixth amateur.

He rang up four birdies and four bogeys on his way to an even par 72 and a 283 total, three under par for the distance.

The 5-foot-6, 158 pound golfer, who started playing at age eight, charged into Friday's final round with a three stroke advantage over Jim Hilderbrand of Ashland and a four stroke bulge over Fritz Schmidt of Columbus.

Lewis, who went to prep school in Rhode Island where he was an all-stater in football and baseball, saw his lead cut to only one shot when he three-putted the second and third holes for bogeys.

"I was playing a bit too conservative and I thought it was about time I got going," Lewis said. "That's when I decided to attack the course."

The key hole was the fifth. Lewis sank a 15 - footer for a birdie while Hilderbrand, who had bogeyed No. 4, suffered a double bogey on No. 5 when he put his second shot in the trap and then blasted out over the green.

Whips Drop 1st Soccer Contest

By The Associated Press
Washington got a first Friday night—but it wasn't the one the Whips of the North American Soccer League were looking for.

The Whips lost their initial game after seven undefeated starts at D.C. Stadium, 3-1 to Baltimore and missed an opportunity to move into first place in the Atlantic Division.

Atlanta is first with 101 points. Washington has 96 but a victory would have moved the Whips into the top spot.

In other NASL action, Boston nipped Vancouver 3-2, Toronto squeezed past Oakland 2-1 and in an exhibition game New York defeated Santos of Brazil 5-3.

Junior Editors Quiz on OPERA

QUESTION: Why are operas always sung in Italian?

ANSWER: Americans enjoy opera because it gives them so many forms of entertainment. Opera is the plural of the Latin word opus, meaning work. So, opera actually gives us the works—drama, beautiful singing, stage spectacles, orchestral music—all in one. Italians gave us opera as an expression of their natural temperament, so gay and lively, so colorful and romantic. Italians love to sing—what more natural than to sing a romantic story? Opera history began in Italy about 1600 with the performance of Peri's Euridice and was carried on by such world famous composers as Rossini, Verdi and Puccini, with a remarkable outpouring of operatic masterpieces, such as Aida, La Boheme, Lucia di Lammermoor and many more. It is not true that all operas are sung in Italian. Many are in German or French, and some in other languages. But because so many of the most popular composers were Italians, and also because the Italian language brings out the beauty of the singing more than any other, we hear more opera in Italian than in other languages. Thus, we have come to associate opera and the Italian language with each other.

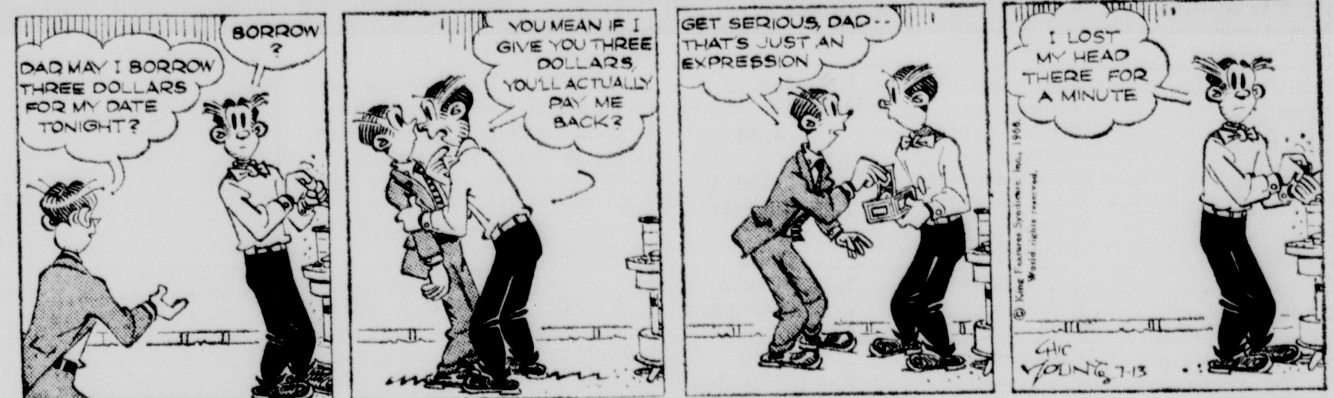

(Bradley Cobb of Waverly Hall, Ga., wins a prize for this question. You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Nurse Strike Threat Hits More Hospitals

WEIRTON (AP) — A threatened strike at Ohio Valley Hospital in Steubenville has led to two other hospitals curtailing all but emergency services.

Weirton General Hospital and St. John Hospital at Steubenville said they have halted elective surgery.

Some 115 general assignment nurses at Ohio Valley Hospital have said they will strike July 22 if their organization is not recognized as a collective bargaining agent.

St. Anthony is the patron saint of Italy.

Grange Honors 5-Year Member At Highlandtown

HIGHLANDTOWN—Mrs. Mabel Boyd of Salineville Rd 1 was honored for her 50-year membership in the Highlandtown Grange during a meeting Thursday—fifty years to the day that she became a member.

Mrs. Boyd received a corsage, a 50-year certificate and a lifetime membership card.

A pin will be given later, Ray Leatherberry, master, said.

The grange, which began in 1914, has five 50-year members and 22 25-year members, Leatherberry pointed out.

A letter was read from Byron Frederick, state master, by Geraldine Kessel, secretary, congratulating Mrs. Boyd on her interest and membership in the group.

Mrs. Betty Thorne, lecturer, presented the program. Carl Leatherberry presented a solo. The officers participated in the program preceding the presentation.

Lunch was served by Ann Kennedy and Rose Smith, assisted by the Home Economics committee under the direction of Peggy Rose, chairman.

The next meeting will be July 25 at 8:30 p.m. in the hall.

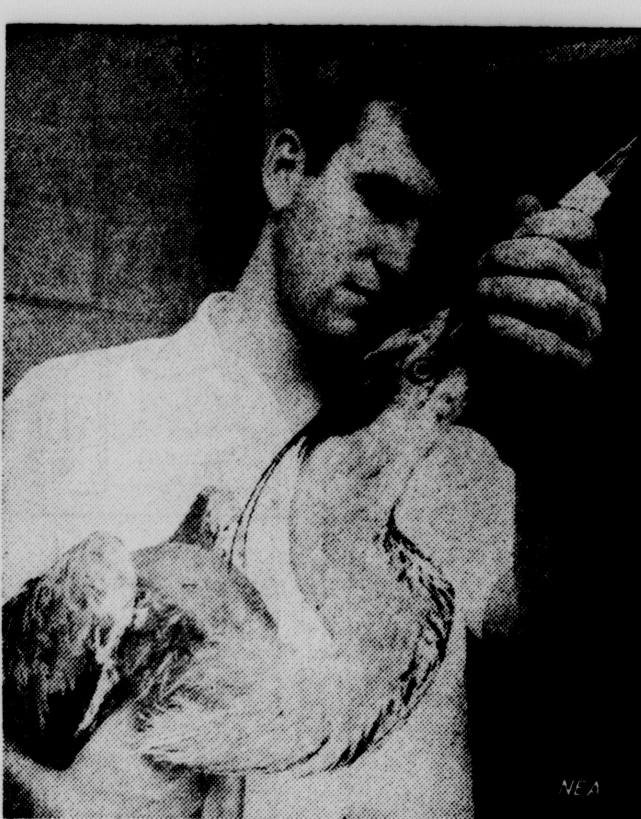

Handouts Ripped In Saxbe Speech

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Welfare handouts to 30 million Americans are not going to solve the nation's poverty problems. Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe said Friday.

The answer, he said, is a better system of distributing national wealth.

Saxbe, Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, made his remarks at a GOP fund-raising dinner here.

"There should be an employer for every person who wants to work. The government must seek ways to include these people in the productive segment of our economy," he said. "It's time we started to provide for their real needs."

BIRD IN THE HAND is recovering from a unique malady. The great blue heron, held by a veterinarian's assistant, splashed down in a St. Petersburg, Fla., pool with a fishing line running out of its beak and around its neck. A veterinarian discovered and removed a fishhook which was lodged 14 inches down the bird's throat.

Beaver Local OK's Budget

The Beaver Local Board of Education Friday approved a 1968-69 budget of $1,495,194, an increase of $317,039 over the 1967-68 budget of $1,178,155.

The budget, with last year's figures in parentheses, includes: General — $1,229,160 ($974,358); cafeteria — $141,136 ($119,400); and bond retirement — $86,989 ($81,897).

The increase over last year is attributed to rises in operating costs and educational supplies, raises granted the faculty and non-certificated personnel, $24,000 for new boilers, $30,000 for four new buses, $35,000 transferred from the permanent capital improvement fund to active use for new buildings, a $5,000 increase in textbook appropriations and increase in state retirement fund payments.

Action Slated On Pay Boost

Council is scheduled to take formal action Monday night on legislation granting a general 5 per cent wage increase to city employees outside the fire and police departments, the result of a strike settlement achieved July 3.

The settlement, also calling for premium pay for overtime and a job evaluation study, terminated a walkout of workers that began June 27 and spread the following day.

The strikers were about 55 members of Local 677, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees. The local represents employees in the street, incinerator, water and sewage departments, "Meter Maids" and some miscellaneous workers.

Members of the fire and police departments received $23-a-month raises in an earlier settlement. The $23 is equivalent to 5 per cent for rank-and-file patrolmen and firemen but a little less for the more highly-paid officers.

Solicitor J. Michael Kapp indicated he would present wage legislation granting the 5 per cent boost to virtually all workers outside the fire and police departments. The wage boost was enacted previously, timed to take effect July 1.

Cincinnati Boy Loses Life In Swim Mishap

The members were accompanied by Mrs. Marci Panton, leader; Mrs. Ann Waite, assistant; Mrs. Ann Purton, and Mrs. Mary Galeoti.

Registration cards were distributed.

Jo Ann Waite received a certificate and charm in special recognition for selling the most candy. Certificates were presented to those highest on the sales list—Joyce Carter, Ann McKinnon, Tony Galeoti, Frances Eskra and Michelle DeSaro.

Protest Plans Bring 10 Patrolmen To OSU

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Reported plans by a group of Ohio State University students to stage a demonstration at the State Capitol Friday brought out a squad of 10 Highway Patrolmen.

But the patrolmen were withdrawn several hours later when the demonstration failed to come off.

The youths had intended to protest the dismissal of eight Negro OSU students for their part in last April's takeover of the campus administration building.

Cases Show Rise In County Court

LISBON — Columbiana County Southwest Court handled 130 new cases during June, compared with 81 in June last year, according to the monthly summary of Veronica Wolski, clerk.

An analysis shows 106 criminal cases (54 in June last year); 13 civil cases (27), and two trusteeships and 9 small claims. The last two categories were added to County Court jurisdiction this year.

Receipts totaled $3,135.85 ($2,733.96) and disbursements $3,187.35 ($2,871).

There were 973 new cases filed in the first six months, compared with 705 for the first half last year.

Southwest Court paid $11,595 to the county treasurer the first half and $6,000, representing 45 per cent of fines levied by Judge J. L. MacDonald in Ohio Highway Patrol cases, to the state treasurer. The first-half 1967 figures in those categories were $7,387 and $2,935.

Death Valley received its name from the Manly - Hunt party of immigrants, many of whom perished there in 1849.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Reported plans by a group of Ohio State University students to stage a demonstration at the State Capitol Friday brought out a squad of 10 Highway Patrolmen.

But the patrolmen were withdrawn several hours later when the demonstration failed to come off.

The youths had intended to protest the dismissal of eight Negro OSU students for their part in last April's takeover of the campus administration building.

Cases Show Rise In County Court

LISBON — Columbiana County Southwest Court handled 130 new cases during June, compared with 81 in June last year, according to the monthly summary of Veronica Wolski, clerk.

An analysis shows 106 criminal cases (54 in June last year); 13 civil cases (27), and two trusteeships and 9 small claims. The last two categories were added to County Court jurisdiction this year.

Receipts totaled $3,135.85 ($2,733.95) and disbursements $3,187.35 ($2,871).

There were 973 new cases filed in the first six months, compared with 705 for the first half last year.

Southwest Court paid $11,595 to the county treasurer the first half and $6,000, representing 45 per cent of fines levied by Judge J. L. MacDonald in Ohio Highway Patrol cases, to the state treasurer. The first-half 1967 figures in those categories were $7,387 and $2,935.
